IL SEEM CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

, ATLANTA, GA. Fight for Permanent Chairman Is a R. C. DESAUSSURE, Cathle Lively One Senator Clay Will Call the Convention To Order The Personal ...$100,000 Side of It.

The democrats of Georgia will nominate ntion today one associate justice the supreme court for the full term of ix years and three associate justices for e new places on the supreme court bench ted by the amendment to the constion favorable terms. No in riment we furnish books as the rate of 4 per cent per a ring interest at 4 per cent tution recently ratified by the people.

The convention which will make ons will be called to order in the ball of the house of representatives at 12 clock, noon, today. Hon. A. S. Clay, as chairman of the state cutive committee, will act as chairman during the temporary organization.

The contest for the permanent chairmanhip is between Hon. Washington Dessau, of Bibb, and Hon. John W. Akin, of Barow. This is a perfectly friendly contest, and the candidacy of neither gentleman ears any relationship whatever to the main contests before the convention. Each of the candidates for the supreme ench has a strong and enthusiastic following; large delegations have come from a number of countles to work for favorite sons, The Kimball lobbles presented the usual convention scenes last night, and the air was full of gossip and predictions; but there was no real developments. Each man who made predictions talked with an air of confidence, but while in some respects se predictions agreed, in many they did not agree. The more conservative politicians said that nobody could name the ticket with any certainty until after the first ballot today. But one thing is certain, and that is the enomination of Judge Lumpkin to succeed himself. As is clearly understood Judge Lumpkin stands on an entirely different footing from the other candidates; this is made clear in the act providing for this election and in the call issued by the mittee for this convention. Judge Lumpkin will be nominated without op-

For the New Places. Last night it was announced by Judge C,'C. Kiddoo, of Randolph, that he would not be a candidate before the convention. Judge Kiddoo's friends in southwestern Georgia had been urging his nomination and a large number of his friends were here to work for him, but last night he inced to them that his name would lot be presented to the convention. active work for the other candidates was being done yesterday afternoon and last night, and it is not exaggeration to say that the work was carried into this morning's hours. The headquarters of each man presented a busy scene. The candiwere shaking hands with callers, friends were "keeping books" on individual delegates who were right, while other fiends were out looking for men whose ence was desired. "It is," as one of the shrewdest politicians of the state put it, "a repetition of the senatorial con-

est, only more so." In addition to the active and announced andidates several well known superior tourt judges received complimentary inents at the hands of their constituents. The list of active candidates in-

Hon. John L. Hopkins, of Fulton. Hon. Andrew Cobb, of Fulton. Hon. William A. Little, of Muscoge William A. Little, of Muscogee. George F. Gober, of Cobb. Joel Branham, of Floyd. W. H. Fish, of Sumter. Hon. B. F. Bower, of Decatur. Hon. John P. Shannon, of Elbert. Hon. Samps W. Harris, of Carroll. Hen. John H. Martin, of Pulaski. Hon. Joseph Ganahl, of Richmond.

About Headquarters. At the headquarters of Judge Hopkins's friends there were a number of the most Pominent lawyers and most prominent dizens of Atlanta all day long. There present, too, a number of eminent twyers from other parts of the state. "It is impossible to say anything definite," Judge R. T. Dorsey, who was there an night, "but we have the most favorall assurances from all parts of the state. The bar of the state is strongly at the back of the movement in behalf of Judge Hopkins, who is one of the most eminent men in the state, and we have every reason to believe he will be nominated."

A large number of former University of Georgia students are among Mr. Cobb's active supporters and his headquarters, a active supporters and his headquarters, a parior on the first floor, was thronged with people during the evening. One of his most active supporters is Hon. Tinsley W. Rucker, who said of Mr. Cobb's candidacy: "We' have surprised everybody by our strength and we will surprise them still mose tomorrow. I believe Andrew still more tomorrow. I believe Andrew Cobb is absolutely certain of nomination the first ballot." At Captain Little's rooms there was an ar of confidence. His friends believe he will lead all the others, and they talk of everybody who is in close touch with the situation will agree with my estimate, which is that Captain Little is sure of elec-tion on the first ballot." Said Hon. Tom Chappell, who is one of the many Columbus men here working for Muscogee's Tavorite son: "Indeed, we have direct pledges from delegates considerably more than is neces-sary to nonunate."

At Judge Gober's headquarters his friends were equally confident not only of success but of leading all the rest. Congressman Tate, who is one of the most active Gober men voiced the sentiments of the Blue Ridge judge's closest friends and advisers when he said: "Judge Gober has, I believe, the strongest following of all of the candidates. His following is by no means confined to his own section of the state, though we are all for him there; but it gratifying to find that he is strong in all parts of the state, and his friends everywhere are enthusiastic."

Congressman Griggs is taking a most active interest in the candidacy of Judge Bower and said last night that he believed the outlook for his man was most favorable. Judge Bower has the active aid of many of his own and Judge Griggs's friends in all parts of the state, and they are strongly hopeful of his success.

The Rome bar is here en masse for Judge Branham, and a large number of other prominent citizens of the Floyd metropolis have laid aside all other business to come here and work for the distinguished jurist, who is their fellow citizen. Hon. W. J. Neel and Captain J. J. Seay said that the believed Judge Branham was a sure winner. "We have nothing to say about the candidacy of anybody else, nor about the claims of any other candidate's friends,' sald Mr. Neel, "but we have the best assurances from all s'des. We know Judge Branham ought to be nominated, and we believe he will be."

All Are in Fine Fettle. No candidate in the list has a following more enthusiastic than that of Judge Sampson W. Harris, of Carroll, Carroll Meriwether, Coweta and other counties of his judicial circuit are here in force. Congressman Charley Adamson, of and Hon. Warner Hill, of Marietta, are among the most active of Judge Harris's supporters. "I believe Judge Harris has as good a chance as anybody.' said Mr. Hill, in talking of the situation. "Those of us who know him best are enthusiastic for him, and we find strong friends all over the state."

Another strong Harris man is Judge W. H. Toombs, of Wilkes. "Everybody who knows Judge Harris loves and admires him," said Judge Toombs. "Our delegation

There was quite a boom on for Judge Fish iast evening. The delegations from his circuit are strong for him, and they found a number of supporters in north Georgia. Judge Haygood, of Macon county, visers, said: "We think southwest Georgia should have one of the places, and we think that Judge Fish is the man for the place You will find a great many delegates agree with us. While we may not be making as oud claims as some of the others, we have the votes, and the votes will do the talking

Dr. Long and Hon. R. F. Wright, of Elbert, were among the men working for the ination of Hon. John Shannon. "We have been much gratified at the evidences of Colonel Shannon's strength," said Dr. Long. "We believe that it is anybody's race, and we are here enthusiastic for Elbert's candidate."

"You can put Pulaski and everybody in it down in the Martin column." said Hon, G. W. Jordan, Sr., last night. "We are here urging the nomination of Hon. John H. Martin, who is the peer of any man offering for the position, and we find a good following in other parts of the state for Major Black, Congressman-elect Fleming and a number of other Augusta lawyers are here advocating the nomination of Major Ganahl. They expressed the hope that Major Ganahl would be one of the nominees. A number of delegates from eastern Georgia are for him, and his friends believe he will have a good general following, For Permanent Chairman. The friends of both Judge Akin and Mr.

Dessau felt confident last night of the election of their favorite to the position of chairman of the convention. Both gentlemen aspire to that position because of the honor which it entails and particular because this convention they consider to be important in marking an important epoch in the history of elections in Georgia. It is the first convention to nominate judges to be voted for by the people.

The effort to make it appear that either man is running in the interest of or against any candidate or candidates is entirely unwarranted by the facts. There is no politics whatever in their aspirations.

The Personal Side. The Kimball looked like old times yesterday-the old times of the most exciting political contests. The lobbles were full to overflowing with people, for in addition to the regular delegates there came from all parts of the state men of prominence who were for the interests of some favorite candidate. Senator Clay was one of the most prom figures and he was overwhelmed with configures and he was overwhelmed with con-gratulations on all sides. Among the con-gressmen and congressmen-elect who were there were Judge Griggs, of the second; Judge Adamson, of the fourth; Congress-man Bartlett, of the sixth; Judge Maddox, of the seventh; Congressman-elect Howard and Judge Lawson, of the eighth; Con-gressman Tate, of the ninth; Major Black and Colonel Fleming of the tenth, and Congressman-elect Brantley, of the eleventh.

A notably prominent figure in the gathering was Judge Samuel Lumpkin, who will have no opposition for re-election to the full term.

The Carroll delegation is a strong one and it is enthusiastic for Judge Harris. Among those who arrived yesterday were Congressman Adamson, Messrs. L. P. Mandeville, C. P. Gordon, E. W. Wells and Sidney Holderness.

Jim Whitehead is at the head of the Warren county delegation and is for Judge Gober first. "I was with George Gober in college," said the Warren county leader, "and no man knows him better than I do; that is why I am for him so strongly."

Judge Richard Johnson and R. P. Ross are the delegates from Jones county. Gwinnett has a strong delegation consisting of Hon. Tyler Peeples, Colonel Bill Simmons, Colonel George Jones and N. L. Hutchins, Jr.

Joe Dunham, bigger and jollier ver, is here at the head of the Marion delegation and has as his associates such BROOKER KILLS HIS NEIGHBOR ZEIGLER wo Sons of the Dead Man Shot Their Father's Slayer at a Big Church Meeting.

Sylvania, Ga., November 17.-(Special.)-

The case of the Zeigler boys, Solomon and Carrie, who are about to be put on trial in the superior court now in session here for the murder of Sheriff Brooker, of this county, has become a very celebrated one in the state and almost unprecedented in the history of the country, from the fact that with a reward of $1,000 offered for their capture they remained unmolested borhood and visited over the county for nearly eight months after they shot and killed the sheriff.

It was two years ago last September that Sheriff Brooker and George Zeigler, father of the two boys, were traveling together over the Sylvania railroad-Brooker bound for Sylvania and Zeigler for his nome at Zeigler's station, about six miles from this place. Brooker was a democrat and Zeigler was a populist. There was also on the train, in the other end of the coach, a negro named George Rollinger s democratic worker. Brooker and Zeigler were good friends up to this time, and were chatting together as they rode. Bellinger was talking rather loudly to some other negroes about the two political parties, and finally made this remark: "I had rather be tried by a jury of bull frogs than a populist jury." They Quarreled Over a Negro. When Zeigler heard this he arose to resent it. He started toward the negro, when Brooker interfered. Some words passed between the two men, and they came at last to blows. They were quickly separated, however, and about this time the train rolled up to Zeigler's station. Zeigler alighted from the train and walked out on the platform.

Just here the testimony is conflicting as the events that then transpired. Zeigler's friends say that when he stepped off the car Brooker cursed him and told him he was afraid to go to Sylvania, and that when Zeigler, unarmed, started back to the car, Brooker fired at him from the car window. The shot took effect and caused Zeigler's death. On the other hand,, the friends of Brooker claim that as soon as the train stopped at the station. Zeigler got off and went into warehouse. There he secured a pistol, and accompanied by his son, Sol, who was also armed, started back on the train: that while advancing toward the sheriff, Brooker fired through the car window. George Zeigler, though shot, boarded the car with his son Sol and there were a in the arm and Brooker was shot in the head and shoulder and was thought to be killed. The train came on, bringing Brooker to Sylvania. His wounds did not prove fatal, and in a short while he was out matter was brought before the grand jury. The jury inquired into the killing and returned "no bill" against Brooker, but found a bill against the two Zeigler boys, Sol and Corrie, for assault and battery topon Coroner Williamson, who chanced to be on the train, and, being a nephew of Brooker, took a small part in the affray, and was afterwards severely beaten by the two boys who charged that he cut their father on the day he was shot by Brooker.

Young Zeigler Swears Vengeance. This action of the grand jury in falling to indict Brooker greatly incensed the young Zeiglers, and from that time, it is sa'd, they swore they would revenge their Brooker was repeatedly warned that the Zeiglers has threatened to kill him on sight, but still he did not seem to fully realize his danger. The months rolled on, and it, was more than a year afterwards, the second Sunday in October, 1895, that at Goloid church, five miles from Sylvania and about two miles from Zeigler's sta

In the afternoon, while perhaps 200 peo ple were standing around on the grounds Brooker started off down the hill toward his buggy with two friends, intending to go home. Directly after he had got out from among the crowd, Sol and Corrie Zeigler, in full view of everybody, were seen following after him, with rifles in hand. When they got within thirty of forty yards they both took aim and fired eneously. Brooker had no warning. He fell forward on his face, just as he was walking, and died in a few seconds. After he had fallen the Zeiglers ran up and fired twice more into his body, all the balls taking effect. They then walked back through the crowd, got into their buggy

A warrant was sworn out for their arres by Sheriff Brooker's young son, and the story of how for eight months it was not executed has been told.

Detective Morris with several confeder tes, was here at intervals for several weeks after the Zeiglers and the thousand dollars, but they did not succeed in ge ting either. Just after superior court last May, however, the Zeiglers voluntarily surrendered to Sheriff William Patrick, and have since been in jail. Detective Morris insists that he ran the Zeiglers into cover and has been pressing his claims for the reward before the governor.

George Bellinger, the negro, who was the cause of the difficulty between Sheriff Brooker and George Zeigler, was sho down and killed near his stables by two unknown white men several months after the death of Zeigler. The grand jury found a true bill against Solomon Zeigler and W. J. Walker for the shooting of Bellinger, and Walker is now in fall and will prol ably be tried at this term of the court.

FORTRESS MONROE BUSY PLACE Activity on the Beach Lends Color to the War Rumors.

Norfolk, Va., November 17.—(Special.)—
Fortress Monroe is at present a scene of the greatest activity, and the rushing forward of all sorts of improvements at the old post is generally thought to be the result of the disturbing war rumors now affect.

Whatever the cause, the work is being pushed. The new disappearing battery of three big ten-inch rifies is being rapidly installed behind the recently constructed concrete emplacements, of which there are two each, thirty feet high and seventy-five

The unprotected mortars on the beach, which have been used for practice, are be-ing removed and will be placed behind the works. This is regarded as perhaps the most significant oircumstance attending the work, except, perhaps, the absence of Colonel Frank, commandant of the post, who is in Washington in consultation with the secretary of war. Officers are ex-tremely reticent and decline to express their opinion as to the meaning of this activity. They also positively refuse to give any information regarding the submarine torpedo battery across the Virginia capes, for which plans were drawn some since. The appropriation having just been made available may account for the un-usual rush at the fort, but in connection with the sensational war rumors it is regarded as significant.

Vienna, November 17.—The semi-official newspapers agree in expressing themselves as satisfied with the explanations of the Russo-German treaty of 18%, made by Prince Hohenlohe and Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, in the German reichstag

The Neue Freie Presse says: "The statements made by Prince Hohen-lohe and Baron Marschall van Bieber-stein dispel all the distrust which was felt after the revelations made by Prince Bismarck."

The Weiner Tageblatt praises the directness and clearness of the declarations made by the German ministers.

"The revelations of Prince Bismarck," the paper adds, "instead of disturbing the relations between Germany and Austria, have been the means of eliciting reassurances of peace."

Herr Bebel Gives the Young War Lord a Severe Roast-Lively, All the Way.

Berlin, November 17.-Today's proceedings in the reichstag were of quite as much interest as those of yesterday, and in many respects a great deal more exciting. As unced last week, the radical interpellation on the recent murder of Herr Siebe mann, at Carlsruhe, by Lieutenant Baron von Bruzwitz, and other military outrages and scandals, and also upon the question of duelling, was introduced today in the presence of a full house and galleries. The expected motion was offered by Herr Munckel, richterite radical, who in the course of his remarks referred to the con-to the recruits last week. The words of the kaiser, Herr Munckel said, could have but one meaning, and that was that whoever insulted the king's coat, insulted the The speaker's interpretation of the kaiser's words elicited ironical cheers from the members of the left, and noisy cries of the members of the right, and the speaker was vociferously cheered by the radicals when he declared that Lieutenant von Bruzwitz was a criminal whose liberty endangered the safety of peaceful citizens. Prince Hohenlohe replied by reading a declaration from the emperor ordering entirely new stipulations in regard to courts of honor, the effect of which was that the decisions of the courts must not necessarily involve a duel. The chancellor declined to discuss the matter of the emperor's prerogative to pardon Lieutenant von Bruzwitz and others who had been condemned by military and other tribunals.

General von Gossler, the new minister of war, followed in a tame speech. It was his first address in the reichstag, and he made an exceedingly unfavorable debut. The sentence imposed upon Lieutenant von Bruzwitz by the military court, he said, had not yet been submitted to the kaiser for his sanction. He protested against the incitement of the public against the army by exploiting cases of cruelty on the part of officers toward soldiers and civilians. (Cries of "Shame," and "Oh, oh.") Rattled the New Minister

The house ought to recollect the instances in which officers had been insulted in the streets, he said. General von Gossler feted several of such cases and the followed an awkward pause, the new war minister having lost the thread of his histo his distress by audible tittering flery speech, in which he defended the rights of civilians against the brutal and wanten assaults of officers. Herr Lenzmann was followed by Dr.

Bachem, clerical, who spoke in a similar strain. At the conclusion of Dr. Bachem's remarks the president of the chamber ros and in grave accents expressed regret that General von Gossler, the war minister, was not a member of the house so that he (the president) might call him to order for having said that the incitement of hatred of military officers had been carried into the

The president's remarks were greeted with mingled cheers and hisses. The speech of General von Gossler was then ssailed in strong terms by Herr Rebel, one of the social-democratic leaders, who declared that it was an insult to the rights

"We could as well," he said, "hang up the kaiser's uniform in the unter Lind and demand that the passing crowd render it homage." In the course of his speech Herr Bebel said that General von Gossler's remarks concerning the case of Lieutenant von Bruzwitz might please the military circle, of a gentleman. At this point the president intervened and called Herr Bebel to order. Herr Bebel, resuming his speech, said that the style of General von Gossler's address had provoked his (Bebel's) remarks.

General von Gossler attempted to refute the statements made by Herr Bebel. He began speaking in a low tone, but the persistent interruptions of the opposition members, who kept shouting "louder, louder," exasperated him and he finally raised his voice to a high pitch and cried: "The in-suits of the socialists I regard as an honor." At this manifestation of temper on the part of the minister of war, the leftists laughed derisively.

The opening sermon was by Right Rev.
Bishop Satterlee, of Washington, his theme being "Thou Shalt Love the Lord, Thy God, All Thy Heart and All Thy Soul,"

The night session was called to order by ts president, Right Rev. Alfred McGill andolph, D.D., bishop of southern Virginia, at the Academy of Music. Bishop Ran delivered an impressive inaugural

The topic for discussion was "How can social unity be obtained?" The writers and speakers on this subject were all men of national reputation, embracing the clergy, the press and the bar. Those who participated were Rev. Frederick Freeze, of Macon, Ga.; Rev. William S. Rainsford, D.D., of New York; Rev. Professor Ezra Gould, D.D., L.L.D., of Philadelphia; Hon. Edwin Lawrence Godkin, editor of The Evening Post, New York; and the Hon. George W. Pepper, of Philadelphia. to the czar as a representative of the Protestant bodies of all creeds in this country and Great Britain. He presented a petition imploring the interposition of that monarch in behalf of the persecuted Armenians in Turkey.

It was deemed prudent, in order that there should be no undue haste in making public the circumstances of the case, that nothing should be said about it at the time. The movement, which culminated in the presentation of a memorial to the czar, began last February, when the bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States joined in an address to the principal powers of Europe, asking them to take action in stopping the course of the massacres and persecution of the Armenian Christians.

At the same time the bishops addressed a petition to the archbishop of Canterbury the late Lord Benson, praying for the help of the church of England and for his influence with the governments of Europe. The archbishop of Canterbury expressed himself as being ready and willing to de everything in his power.

It is said that it was at his suggestion that the Protestant Christians of the English-speaking world, regardless of their forms of creeds, united in an appeal to the czar to be presented to him at or about the time of his coronation.

Today charges appeared in a local newspaper by citizens interested in Port Royal, stating that the effort to unbottle Port Royal has been singularly abortive and that the governor of the state had been holding conferences in the office of J. Pierpont Morgan, in New York, after which Thomas & Ryan had won their point,

The legislature is called on to probe and sift the matter.

In reply to this, Governor Evans asserts that he did not go to New York to take the evidence of these men, but being there he and the attorney general decided to save them the trouble of coming south. They were put on eath by the attorney general were put on oath by the attorney general and their testimony taken. This testimony, the governor says, he has in writing, but declines to give it out now. He states however, that every effort has been made to ascertain whether Thomas & Ryan were interested in the Southern. They swore that they were not interested in any other railroad and denied being agents for the Southern. The state must accept that, said the governor, until there is proof of its falsity. If at any time it is shown that either secretly or openly the newly ac-quired property of Thomas & Ryan was used to discriminate against Port Royal then the sale residence. then the sale would be revoked by the state authorities. DYNAMITE TO FREE PRISONERS found a dynamite bomb ten inches in circumference lying on the pavement of Clark avenue, immediately in front of the Four Courts building and within one hundred feet of police headquarters.

The police are inclined to believe that the bemb was intended to shatter the building and in the confusion following the explosion permit a number of prisoners confined in the cells in the basement to escape. The city jail adjoins the Four Courts building and over thirty prisoners arrested for murder are confined therein.

The agent of a powder company, to whom the bomb was taken for examina tion, declared that it was filled with sufficient dynamite to cause great destruction, had it exploded.

MOBS FLOURISH AT ALTOONA.

Nine Negroes Shot in a Kentucky Town, Where It Is a Pastime.

Paducah, Ky., November 17.—Four negroes were seriously wounded and five others sprinkled with buckshot last night by a mob of white men at Altoona, fifteen es from here on the Tennessee river. Fifteen negroes were engaged in cutting timber for the Standard Oli Company. They had been ordered to leave, being told that no negro was allowed to stop there. John Keeber, the foreman, decided that there was no danger of violence and the negroes were sitting around an old smokehouse when a mob of fifty men swooped down pon them and began firing.

Some of the negroes ran into the woods and others sought refuge in the house with the foreman. The mob then started to burn the house, but the foreman sued for peace and the negroes were given twenty-five minutes in which to leave. The seriously wounded are:

Smith, foreman; Mitch Clark, John Boyd nd Seena Jenkins. They were brought to his city. No effort has been made to apprehend the mob. Not a negro can be found for miles fround Altoona today. Several men have een killed by mobs in this neighborhood

CONNELL KILLED A SHERIFF DURHAM'S ASSASSIN TO PLACED ON TRIAL.

Murder Was Committed at Prisoner' Home and the Slayer Watched His Victim as He Died.

Mount Vernon, Ga., November 17 .- (Spe cial.)-William Connell, who is charged with the murder of Sheriff George Dunham will be called before Judge C. C. Smith this week. The affair occurred in May a year ago, and there are several conflicting stories regarding it. Immediately after the perpetration of the crime, a warrant was sworn ou for the arrest of Connell, he being charged with committing the murder. A man named Morris accompanied th sheriff to Connell's house, the sheriff having a warrant for Connell's arrest for another offense. When they arrived some twenty-five yards from the yard, Morris alighted from the buggy to wait until the officer finished his business. Dunham called Connell from the house and both proceeded to a log sat down and engaged in a conversation. Soon, so Morris says, loud words were heard, followed by the loud report of a gun. Morris hastily rame up and found Dunham lying on the groun weiting in his life's blood.

"I'm killed, Jim," he spoke.
"Yes, and I'd rather killed one of my brothers than to have killed him, but I had it to do," replied Connell, whe was standing in the threshold of his house. had it to do," replied Connell, whe was standing in the threshold of his house. "Here, Jim, take this pillow," said the

The body of the sheriff lay in front of Connell's house all night. The next morning his son came and took charge of the remains. The coroner's jury fastened the crime on Connell. At a preliminary examination, strange to say, he was released without bond. The grand jury, however, indicted him for murder. Dunham was one of the best officers in the state, being fearless and intereptd, and knew no man when discharging his duty. After the five negroes were hanged here he received a letter from Governor Northen praising him for saving the lives of the cowering wreaches from the hands of

In the fall of 1893, a mob attempted t storm the jail and lynch the five Crow-hatan before they were sentenced to hang. Loyd is the man who was found in the residence of Mrs. Jones, at the corner of Courtland and Linden streets, about six weeks ago in broad daylight, and in compawith two other white boys. The bold burclars had ransacked every room in the

Yesterday Loyd and Tom Anderson, one of his partners, were taken to the courtuse as witnesses in another case. There were in all about twenty-two prisoners ken from the jail with them, all held for Merent crimes.

About 6 o'clock last night the court adorned, and the chaingang started for the jail. The prisoners were accompanied by five bailiffs and Deputy Sheriff Austin. The men were chained together, whites and blacks separately. Loyd and Anderson were handcuffed together, and walked in the rear of the procession.

As the prisoners marched out Hunter street and passed Loyd the officers noticed significant movements in the ranks. A break for liberty was anticipated. At the corner of Washington street Loyd and Anderson started to run, but were headed off by Officer Austin.

They Ran for Liberty. At the corner of Hunter and Butler streets, while Sheriff Austin was walking on the left of Anderson and Loyd, and the other officers were toward the front of the column, the young burglars decided their ime had come, and made a desperate break for liberty.

With lightning rapidity they dashed up Butler street toward Capitol avenue. Officer Austin struck at them with his stick as they started, but missed. He ran after the fleeing fugitives, but on account of his age was unable to keep up with them. By this time Bailiffs F. A. McDonald and R. H. Smith joined in the race, and yelled to the prisoners to halt. Keeping on in their desperate flight, the men paid no attention to the officers' warnings. The prisoners were forty yards in front of the bailiffs when they drew their pistols and commenced firing directly at the burglars. About five bullets were sent whizsing after the fugitives, and one took effect in Lovd's left shoulder. This brought both to a standstill. Loyd reeled to one side, but did not fall. They were marched to the jail by the bailiffs, where Sheriff Barnes was notified, and Dr

McDaniel summoned An examination of Loyd's wound showed the bullet to have entered just below the left shoulder. While he is in a serious condition, yet it is thought the wound will, not necessarially prove fatal. He is still locked in his cell at the jail, and will not be taken

Loyd made the following statement last

"The officers did not tell me to halt, but yelled, 'Kill him.' If I die, I will go with a true heart. The judge acted partially, for he gave me more than the rest of them. I will die before I will serve my sentence, and don't intend to work. I did not resist the officers, but just broke and run."

Bailiffs McDonald and Smith are not cerin which one fired the fatal shot. Both timed at the prisoner, and it was impossihe to tell which one hit him. Neither of m has been arrested, as Sheriff Barnes WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN IDAHO CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT HAS 5,000 MAJORITY.

Ofricial Ruling of Two Years Ago Leaves It in Doubt as To Whether Women Will Vote or Not.

Bolse City, Idaho, Nomeber 17.-From nofficial sources it is learned that the woman suffrage amendment to the constitution has a majority of nearly 3,000. It is, however, a question whether the amendment has really passed, owing to the official ruling on a similar question that came up two years ago.

At that time a proposed constitutional mendment segregating the office of probate judge and county school superintend ent was carried in the same way, but it was held that the amendment was lost because the vote in its favor was not a majority of those cast at that election, though it was a majority of those cast on that ques

This rule is in effect that votes not cast either for or against are to be construed as being cast against a measure. The question will be taken into court as soon as possible to determine whether the ruling of two years ago will hold good on the Directors of the American Tobacco Company in Court.

INDICTMENT IS QUESTIONED

Corporation Charged with Unlawfully Controlling Trade.

CASE WAS FULLY ARGUED BY COUNSEL Defendants Claim That Their Busi ness Is Conducted in a Legal

New York, November 17.-The argumen on the demurrer against the indictments found last May against the directors of the American Tobacco Company was begun today before Judge Fitzgerald in general sessions.

The men named in the indictment are James B. Burke, William H. Butler, Wil-liam H. Marburg, Lewis Ginter, George Arents, George W. Gail, Benjamin N

Duke, George W. Watts, Josiah Browne and Charles G. Emery.

The grand jury first indicted them under the common law, charging them with conspiracy to prevent competition in the price. of commodities in common use. A superseding indictment was found for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws recently passed. The alleged violation is said to have occurred October 6, 1894.
The indictment charges that on that date

the corporation known as the American Tobacco Company were engaged in busi-ness of making and selling paper cigarettes and that it was impossible for whole dealers and jobbers in paper cigarettes to conduct and carry on their business profit ably without dealing in the cigarettes manufactured by the American Tobacco Company.

The indictment sets forth that they unlawfully monopolized the business of making and selling paper cigarettes. The obacco men, through their counsel, Joseph H. Choate, entered a demurrer to the indictment and after several postponeme the argument on the demurrer was fixed for today in general sessions.

Lawyer William W. Fuller, for the defendants, made the first argument against the validity of the indictment. He contended that there was no violation of lav in the manner in which the tobacco com-pany had conducted business.

He cited a number of precedents sustaining his contention of the United States circuit courts. He held that cigarettes were not a "necessity" and therefore did were not a "necessity" and therefore the not come within the meaning of the law. If the American Tobacco Company really did stop the persons in this indictment from dealing in the cigarettes of another company it would not be illegal. It would be healthy competition. The rights of a private corporation are no different from the rights of an individual and may make such contracts as an individual. Mr. Fuller contended that the act of the legislature of 1896, in reference to trusts was unconstitutional, principally because it made the act of a corporation illega rhich would be legal for an individual. He occupied an hour in making his argument Attorney Lindsay in reply to Mr. Fuller said the accused men had conspired to create a monopoly and drive out all competition by imposing on retail dealers' conditions which prevented them from dealing in the cigarettes of any other

Mr. Lindsay said that in considering the combinations the courts always went right own to the object of the combination to earn if there was any restriction of trade or injury to the public.

"The essential thing," said Mr. Lindsay, "was the conspiracy to drive out compet-itors and monopolize the trade. If so, the prohibited such. Is the public injured, or may it be injured by carrying out such contract? That is the chief point to consider. The allegation in this indictment is that if the contract of the American Tobac-co Company was carried out, certain business men would be driven out of trade. That is an unlawful restraint of trade. A combination such as this forced on the public is certainly an illegal conspiracy. At the conclusion of Mr. Lindsay's argu-

nent, a recess was taken. Choate Defends the Corporation. After recess, Mr. Choate began his argument. He declared that no authority had en shown for the indictment. "The counsel for the people," he contin-ed, "comes here empty-handed. If the means alleged against the American Tobacco Company are legal for an individual they are lawful for a corporation. The means employed by the defendants were such as were sustained by the law for centuries. If the American Tobacco Company employs certain means to overcome a rival in the sale of cigarettes and push that competitor out of business, liow can that be termed a conspiracy? Let us see what the logical conclusion of the indict-ment would be. They were the principal manufacturers of rigarettes. Suppose they cenclude not to sell any of their products. Then they are indictable for not selling and estricting trade, according to the conention made by the district attorney. Is that sensible? The members of a corporation cannot be charged with conspiracy for conducting a business which is lawful. Rivals in business cannot agree among themselves to limit the supply of material and the price thereof to the injury of the public. There is no doubt about that, but where the agreement of one corporation is aimed only at a rival in business the case is, quite different."

Mr. Choate said the corporation was indicted for refusing to sell except under its own stipulations. The corporation was under no obligations to sell, as a railroad is to carry passengers. No man is bound to "Every man has a right," said Mr. Choate "to conduct his business as he chooses so long as he injures no one he is under an obligation to benefit. If this were not so the corporations controlling the various newspapers would be guilty of violating the law in fixing the price of a newspaper at 2 cents, 3 cents or 1 cent. But who would say the newspaper corporations had not the right to fix the price of their papers?" Mr. Choate here concluded his argument and it was agreed that both sides should hand up their briefs by December 1st. Decision on the demurrer may not be given for several weeks.

DUKE KNOCKS McDONALD OUT Baltimore Boy Whips a Fighter Who Stopped in Atlanta Awhile.

Savannah, Ga., November 17.—(Special.)— Billy Duke, of Baltimore, knocked Larry McDonald, of Savannah, out in the twen McDonald, of Savannah, out in the twentyfirst round at the Pastime Athletic Club tonight, the fight concluding at 11:20 o'clock
The participants started in from the first round and heavy punishment was dealt by both. The fight appeared a draw until round nineteen, when Duke knocked Mc Donald down the first time, though he drew blood from his nose in the seventh round. McDonald came to the scratch again, but was knocked out in round twenty-one by a terrific blow on the lip. His lip was swollen three times its natural size.
There were about 100 spectators at the fight at $1 a head and as part of the gate money goes to the winner, Duke makes about $75 out of it.

Friends Are Alarmed.

Rome, Ga., November 17 .- (Special.)-The riends of Mr. Tom Turner, who owns a third interest in The Rome Commercial, are very much concerned about his condition. For some time he has been in failing health and during the late campaign he worked exceedingly hard, giving his enthusiastic support to Seaborn Wright in Sunday night he wandered away from his residence and when found was some disance from the house clad in light apparel for such cool weather and in bare feet. It was soon discovered that he was not in his right mind, but was laboring under the delusion that he was being pursued by somebody who wanted to him an injury. He said that the top of his head had been taken off and talked very wildly about his troubles. He was carried home and given every attention. A man sat up with him leat night, but fell asleep during the night. When he awoke Mr. Turner was missing. A search was made and he was found nea ried home again. He is still in a critical condition and it is feared that his trouble may prove to be permanent.

His business is in good condition, the Alex Goodwin, a negro, who has been in jail for some time, was sent up for three years on a charge of perjury by Judge Henry today. The case is an interesting one involving an accident policy in the Atlanta Accident Insurance Company. Some months ago Goodwin took out an accident, policy which was to insure him against accident on a graduated scale commensurate with the extent of the injury.

Shortly afterwards he appeared with his arm in a sling and made an affidavit that he had had three fingers mashed off in coupling cars. An investigation was made before the company would pay, the weekly indemnity of $7.50, and it was found that he had not been injured as he claimed, but that his hurts were of a trifling nature and that only two of his fingers had been taken off long after the accident and the third was only slightly skinned. Because of his having been instrumental in discovering a plot to sandbag the jailer by two desperadoes and the fact that he was so densely Ignorant, Judge Henry was light on him and gave him only three years instead of the full penalty. The accident insurance companies have complained a good deal about the frequen-cy of accidents among their policy holders ng the past year, and the fate of Goodupon others of his kind who may try to

Mr. Turner, of The Rome Commercial, James Galaway, an Atlanta Boy, Run Over at Winder Monday Night.

COMING TO SEE HIS MOTHER

Had Been Away from Home Only a Few Months, and Had Been at Elberton.

James R. Galoway, who lives at 151 Luckie street, was run over by a Seaboard Air-Line freight train at Winder, Ga., Monday night and instantly killed. The ac-cident happened at 10 o'clock and the man-gled remains were found soon after. One of the young man's feet was found wedged tightly in a frog, and it is thought that his foot must have become caught by the frog while he was stealing a ride thus pulled him from off the car.

So tightly was his foot caught that it was hours before it could be extracted, and not before several trains had passed over it. In one of the pockets of the dead man was found a ticket for a valise, which was checked from Elberton to Atlanta, and it was this which led to the Mantite. and it was this which led to the identity of the remains. His mother, Mrs. Cumie Galoway, was notified of the accident about 12 o'clock yesterday, and wired the authorities at Winder to send the remains to Atlanta. This was done and they arrived about 7 o'clock last night.

James Galoway was only sixteen years of age, but was the main support of his widowed mother. During the two years that the family has been in this city, he has been employed at the cotton factory on Marietta street. But last September he became dissatisfied with Atlanta and decided to seek work in some other city.

He went from here to Hartwell, Ga., which is five miles beyond Eiberton, and after staying there a while he secured position in the cotton factory at Elberton. He held this position until a few days ago when he decided to come home. He wrote his mother saying that he was home-sick and that he would come as soon as he could. But she was destined to never see him again in life, and it was while he was on his way home to see his widowed mother that he met with the sad accident, which resulted in his death. James Galoway's mother has been widow for five years and has four sons, of which he is the eldest. The funeral will be from the home of his mother this af-ternoon at 2 o'clock, and the interment will occur at Westview cemetery.

Don Quixote on the Rampage.

According to the Washington corre spondents the Cuban situation is grow ing in interest every day. Sifting all sensational rumors out of the reports that are sent from the federal capital. it seems to be certain that Spain is preparing to make a spectacular display of | Pugh. herself. Don Quixote has come to life again, and is on the rampage, and as in which he can be incarcerated, the civilized world will have to bear with his vagaries as best it can.

It is stated that General Weyler has been instructed to make one desperate effort to end the war in Cuba before the McKinley administration comes on deck. Failing in that, he is to be called home in disgrace, and the war is to be transferred from Cuba to the United States.

In other words, if Spain finds herself unable to conquer the Cuban patriots, she will turn her attention to conquering the United States. This is the programme seriously given out at Washington, and it seems that the government officials are really of the opinion that the failure of the Spaniards to secure a decisive victory over Maceo in the mountain districts of Pinar del Rio a "crisis" in the relations between Spain and the United States.

As there may be many matter-of-fact readers who will be inclined to give the term "crisis" its original meaning, we hasten to say that diplomatic and newspaper usage have stripped the word of its English significance. In Europe, as well as among our native newspaper reporters, a "crisis" means any situation of a man devoted to the best interests that is not intended to be a joke and yet of the state, and to the highest, noblest is not to be taken seriously.

this: If Spain should demonstrate her inability to retain Cuba-that is to say, if her own people could be brought to see what everybody else now seesthere would be a popular uprising in that country, the probability being that the queen regent would be deposed and the young king murdered.

In order to avert this, the Spanish government, it is said, will lay the cause if its defeat in Cuba to the United States and, in order to appease the Spanish mob, will begin hostilities against this country. The groundwork for this movement on the part of Don Quixote is already laid in the Spanish newspapers which teem with attacks on the United States and with cartoons showing the contempt of the Spaniards for the American republic and its people.

War with this country would be undertaken solely for the purpose of preserving the Spanish monarchy intact, and not with any hope of accomplishing anything. The Spanish newspapers have for some time been attributing the failure of the government troops in Cuba to win any decisive victory to the assistance rendered the patriots by the people of the United States. They have done this and are doing this in the face of the fact that although the peo ple of this country sympathize with the Cubans and favor Cuban independence, Mr. Cleveland has kept the revenue cutters and the cruisers in southern waters very busy in chasing fillibustering expeditions.

But the newspapers of Spain have a part to play in the matter. They deem it their duty to divert the attention of the Spanish populace from the real weakness of the monarchical party in Spain, and to this fact is due their constant attacks on the United States. This policy has had precisely the effect it was expected to have. The mortarchical party is hiding its impotence and the results of its bad management behind the excuse that the American republic has, by its sympathy for and assistance to Cuba, prolonged the war in that island and prevented the Spanish troops from seoring a substantial victory.

All the accounts received in Washington from Spain show that the monarchical party, in trying to protect itself against criticism and ultimate ruin, has worked up among the ignorant Spanfards a very bitter feeling against the United States, and it is thought by those best informed that unless General Weyler, who has himself taken the field to operate against Maceo in Pinar del Rio. should achieve a victory that would in Cuba in a chaotic state.

Now, there is hardly a hope on the part stand the situation that Weyler will be able to do any more than has already been done. There are glowing reports that he has driven Maceo across the mountains, but the probability is that the Spanish troops will finally be led into a position where Gomez can come to the aid of Maceo, and when that occurs, Spanish dominion in Cuba will Consul General Lee, who is now in Washington, is extremely reticient in expressing his opinion in regard to the situation, but it is known that he regards a victory over the Cubans by Weyler as an event not likely to occur. General Lee is of the opinion that Maceo will not be dislodged from his mountain fastnesses, that Weyler will return to Havana discredited as a military commander and that chaos will follow. In this event, there are good reasons for believing that General Lee is in favor of intervention by the United States if Weyler's present campaign does not put an end to the war.

The situation as it stands, is, therefore, about this: The monarchical party in Spain feels that it must keep up the war in Cuba at all hazards, in order to retain control of the home government. On the other hand the prolongation of the war in Cuba means the ruin of the island almost beyond recovery, and the consequent destruction of all American interests.

Meanwhile, it is hinted, rather than given out, that Mr. Cleveland retains his sympathetic interest in the Spanish cause (which The New York Journal's correspondent traces to the influence of the sugar trust), but is prepared to meet a declaration of war by Spain in the most vigorous manner. Should there be no declaration of war he will hand the Cuban problem over to Mr. McKinley, who will doubtless deal with it in the spirit of the declaration made in the republican platform.

Alabama's New Senator. We observe that even so late as Monday the esteemed Washington Post was predicting by means of the insidious headlines, that the democratic legislature of Alabama would elect a gold standard man as successor of Senator

This would have been a very remarkable occurrence, but the fact that such there is no international insane asylum an impression got abroad is almost as remarkable. There was absolutely no basis for it, so far as we have been able to discover.

What the legislature did do was to honor a democrat who has long been an honor to his party. If the whole country could be "raked with a finetooth comb" (as the saying goes) it would be impossible to find a stancher democrat, or a more uncompromising opponent to every political idea or theory that is not democratic than General E. W. Pettus, who has been made United States senator from Alabama to succeed Mr. Pugh.

General Pettus belonged to the old heroic school of democracy, and his devotion to his party is only equaled by his devotion to his people. Indeed, his selection shows that the party in Alawill bring about what is politely called bama is determined to hold fast by first principles and to put forward only men whose democracy means something substantial, and whose sentiments have not been blurred by the commercial considerations that have come to play so large a part in our modern politics.

General Pettus is a rock-ribbed demo crat, but men of all parties in Alabama are to be congratulated on the selection conception of democracy.

The Old Log Cabin.

There was something encouraging in the picture printed yesterday of the old log cabin in which Senator Steve Clay was born.

It is from such cabins that the American republic has always recruited its great men. There never yet has been an emergency threatening the life of the republic, or calling for the exercise of patriotism but the hero has been furnished from the masses of the common people, and the old log cabin has been brought into prominence as the nursery of American patriotism and American greatness.

Whether it be Lincoln or Davis, it is all the same. The sturdy qualities, the noble manhood, the unflinching integrity which fit men for emergencies, have their birth and their best training in the old log cabin where stalwart manhood is bred and born. All honor then, to the old log cabin, the home of stalwart American manhood, which dots every portion of our favored land, and from whose portals there is ever ready to step forth the man for the occasion. and the one who is to serve his people and to save them, if necessary.

Mr. Calvin's Bill.

Mr. Calvin's bill regarding building and loan associations, which has passed the house of representatives and which is now before the senate, is an import ant one, and requires careful consideration before it reaches final passage.

The bill, as introduced, provides for loan and building companies doing business within the limits of the state, making the same deposits for security which are required from foreign companies doing business within the state, and has merit, but there is danger that it goes too far. That danger was pointed out by Mr. Slaton, of Fulton. The bill provides for an exemption for local loan and building associations doing business within the limits of the county of their domicile.

Mr. Slaton aptly pointed out that these companies do business in several counties, and that, therefore, the exemption should be broadened. As an example, we take the county of Fulton. There is never a local loan and building association organized in this county which does not contain among its members stockholders from Cobb, Clayton and DeKalb. People in Jonesboro, in Decatur and in Marietta wish to avail themselves of the benefits of local loan and building associations, and in order crush the hopes of the Cubans, he would to do so join those organized in this be recalled to Spain, and leave affairs city. They are really a part of our general community. Many of these people have their business in Atlanta and of Spanish sympathizers who under their homes in the towns referred to, and for purposes of business it may be assumed that they are all but one adment proposed by Mr. Slaton would have made the exemption what it should be, and would have authorized these companies to do business within the commercial limits which they naturally reach. It is to be hoped that in the senate Mr. Slaton's amen ment will find supporters, who will make it clear that it is simply an amplification and an improvement upon the original bill.

Of course, Mr. Calvin's idea is to protect stockholders against such mana gers of loan and building association doing a general susiness, and at the same time to aid those local associations which are purely mutual and which are managed through local directors who receive no pay for their services and who act in the interest of their fellows and partners. The old Germania associations which existed in Atlanta, the present Hibernia association and others of like character, did and are doing a strictly local business, and have passed through their different series with success and satisfaction. These associations have passed outside of the limits of Fulton county to do business. What is true of this county is true also of Chatham, of Bibb, of Richmond, of Muscogee, of Floyd and other large counties.

It is to be hoped that the senate will carefully consider this bill, and while making every provision for the protection of stockholders take no step which will cripple legitimate business or place manacles upon the workings of trade.

The Extinguishment of Savagery. Those who have been brought up amid the influences of civilization, inheriting the training of thousands of years, seldom stop to think of the slow stages through which their ancestors passed from a condition of savagery into that of modern living.

The story narrated in yesterday's Constitution from Dawson, Ga., of the tortures inflicted by a colored parent upon his child suggests how long a time i takes to pass from the influences of the tungles to those of life in civilization. It seems that this infuriated father, not content with whipping his child, allow ed his savage instincts to get the better of him and held the sufferer's naked back to the fire until the skin was blistered. The ancestors of this man had been, for thousands of years, sunk in the degradation which the inhabitants of Africa alone have reached, but for probably two hundred years they have been living in this civilized land listening to the teachings of the gospel, witnessing the courtesies of civilized life and receiving impressions which should in time clear up even the densest intel-

Still, at the end of the second century we find that the instinct inherited from a remote ancestry has not been wholly effaced, but crops out occasionally, to teach us the lesson of the importance of the work which has raised mankind to its present standard. How long a time it will take to totally eradicate the savage instinct it is hard to say, but it is enough to know that under the most favorable circumstances, with every surrounding calculated to elevate and instruct, that it is still a hard task, and one which calls for the attention of those who devote their minds to the raising of the human race.

New York Tribune: Beyond all question Japan is getting on. She has not been content with taking a leaf from the book of American and European progress. She has taken the whole volume and marked, read and inwardly digested it. New York Mail and Express: Bolivia, by formally recognizing the Cuban revolutionists as beliligerents, has taken a step which must seriously complicate the almost hopeless conditions against which Spain is contending in the West Indies. The example of Bolivia will in all likelihood be followed by other South American republics, and through such action the Cuban cause will acquire a moral as well as a material foothold which it could not get otherwise.

Nashville American: Venezuela can a Nashville American: Venezuela can accept or reject the agreement reached by England and the United States, but it is scarcely possible that Venezuela will fall to realize that arbitration, which for forty years she has been asking, is now offered. If rejected, and South American republics are very uncertain quantities, the United States can only stand aside and permit England to do as she pleases, for by our agreement we have promised not to use force.

New Orleans Picayune: The powers of Europe have not been slow to understand the meaning and significance of the acquiescence by Great Britain in the demand made by the United States that the Venezuelan incident be submitted to arbitration. They realize that Great Britain has formally recognized the existence of the Monroe doctrine and has accepted its provisions as the new rule in regulating international affairs where the western hemisphere is concerned.

CURIOUS GEORGIA NOTES.

There is a curiosity over in Worth county hat will puzzle nurserymen. Mr. C. M. that will puzzle nurserymen. Mr. C. M. Willis has on his place a Keifer pear tree that is about five years old. The entire that is about five years old. The entire lower part of the trunk has been apparently dead for two years past. Cutting around it with a knife fails to show any sap, and the bark has peeled off and the wood is becoming season-cracked. Yet all the branches of the tree are green except one, and have borne two crops of fruit—one last year and one this. It is generally supposed that the life of a tree comes up from mother earth through the sap, and just how this one is living, cut off as it is from all connection with the earth, is a mystery.

Mr. J. T. Peel, of Burke county, is exhibiting a limb of cotton from his farm that contained a cluster of nine well-developed green boils. He said he had counted a number of stalks on his farm that contained from seventy-five to one hundred green boils on them. This is the best top crop heard of, and it begins to look as if Mr. Peel's cotton will just continue to bear, rain or shape. If it keeps up, he will give a cotton-picking party the middle of next April as a novelty and to show off his variety.

Mr. W. J. Willis, of Lowndes county, has some rare heirlooms, which he bought last week at the administrator's sale of his father's estate. There were two old flint-and-steel pistols, made in the early years of the present century, an old short-style broad-sword and a walking cane made in 1812 of wood, with a buckhorn handle. The pistols did service in the Revolutionary war.

A novel wagon passed through Elberton recently. The entire body, with the cover, was formed of the body of one tree. The tree was cut the right length for the body and the heart of it was hewn out so that the driver could sit in the hollow very comfortably and drive, thus forming a secure cover as well as body.

There is a large class of marriageable young men in Gwinnett county who, on account of the money stringency and hard times, have been postponing marriage until better times might come to their relief. Buoyed up in the hope that we are now on the verge of such times, they are ready to make a matrimonial leap and undertake the support of wives, and they so announce.

ABOUT WELL-KNOWN MEN.

The board of directors of the Fourth National bank of New York, of which the late John H. Inman was a member, has adopted the following tribute to the memory of their departed associate:
"Today the directors of the Fourth Na tional bank are confronted with the sad duty of recording the death of one of their associates, Mr. John H. Inman. "For fifteen years Mr. Inman has served as an active and an efficient director among us, and by his death this bank has lost one of its ablest, warmest and most devoted friends.

The subject was 'The Life and Character of General William MacRae.' A portion of the address was devoted to a description of the battle of Ream's Station, in which General MacRae bore such a conspicuous and gallant part, and to the success of which he so largely contributed by his valor and ability. The description of this battle was so graphic, accurate and impartial that it has met with the highest commendation from both confederate and federal officers who participated in it, to which in all probability is due the fact that the library of the war department has recently requested Major Stedman to contribute what he had written or might yet write on the history of the war, which is not only a high compliment, but a merited recognition of the worth as historic documents, of the writings of one who not only did a soldier's duty with a soldier's loyalty, but has since, with fillial devotion, treasured the memory of the battles lost and won, and rescued from oblivion some of the glorious adhievements of his brothers in arms."

Judge Robert L. Rodgers announces his andidacy for the United States district attorneyship for the northern district of Georgia during the next national administration. He says he was an earnest advocate of McKinley's normation earnest advocate of McKinley's nomination and election, and that he thoroughly sym pathizes with the principles of protection and "sound money."

Judge Rodgers is also soon to begin the

SOME GEORGIA STORIES.

Clerk of the Court Furches, of States-ville, N. C., has in his office a pet cat of which he is very fond, and the cat reciprocates the affection. Tuesday evening just after the clerk had locked the big safe in his office he missed the cat, but supposing it had gone out to spend the night, he closed the office and went beme. Wednesday morning when the clerk began to unlock his safe he heard a cat mew, and when the doors of the safe swung open his cat jumped out, lively and chipper. It had gone into the safe before it was closed the day before, was locked in and spent the night there. But how it managed to survive is a mystery.

Last week something happened at High Point, N. C., that has caused a great deal of talk. A lady who had been sick for several weeks had been constantly expressing a wish for a partridge. About 10 o'clock one morning a thump was heard against the front door, and on going out on the porch a partridge was found fluttering, having broken its neck as it flew against the door. The woman firmly believes that the Lord sent her the bird.

At Norfolk, Emmett and David Mur-At Norfolk, Emmett and David Murphy, aged seventeen and nineteen years, were taken before Mayor Baird upon a charge of trying to kill their mother. The former was sent to jail and bound over to keep the peace for one year, with the understanding that unless he furnished a bond he would remain until the time expired. After receiving his sentence he threatened to kill both father and mother in open court. His conduct was so disgusting that the worst creature in the room looked down on him with contempt.

Captain West, of Little Rock, received an order for a bill of lumber, conditioned that if McKinley was not elected the order need not be filled. It came on the day of election, and was carefully filed away to await the result. When the news came that McKinley was elected he wrote the partles, informing them of the fact that lumber was then worth $1 per thousand more than before, and he would fill the order with that advance, which he did.

Several years ago, in Florida, an alligator killed and devoured an old negro's only child. Since that time the old man is said to be "wandering in his mind." He devotes himself entirely to the work of killing alligators. He states that he "knows the one that got his boy," and that he will never rest until he captures and kills it.

Columbus Enquirer-Sun: As to Mr. Chy. he is young, brainy and aggressive, and while he lacks experience now, he will, we believe, quickly gain it. As a parliamentarian he has few equals in the state, and his ability to quickly dispatch business in a deliberative assembly is remarkable. It was a lucky chain of circumstances which landed Mr. Clay in the United States senate, but we believe he has the ability and knack of quickly attaching on to soon make the state a valuable member in that august assembly.

Populist Nominee, Phillips, Given 34 and Major Hanson, Republican, Receives Three Votes.

William Phillips. 34 Hon. A. S. Clay, of Georgia.

He was chosen yesterday by the general sembly of Georgia to represent this state in the senate for and during the full term beginning on March 4, 1897. His term will expire on March 4, 1903.

The two houses of the legislature met in joint session at noon yesterday and Mr. Clay was formally elected to succeed Senator John B. Gordon. When the result of the vote was announced there was democratic enthusiasm in the hall of representatives and in the galleries. The ballot was the seventh taken by the general assembly in joint session. Unlike the preceding sessions the democrats cast their votes for one man, Mr. Clay, and the epulists and republicans were overwhelmd by the united strength of the democrats. There were three nominees for the high office. Nearly all members of both houses were in attendance at the session and voted for the nominee of their party. When the senate members reached the representatives all the latter was crowded by members and visitors and the house galleries were comfortably filled by visitors, many of whom were ladies, Considerable interest was manifested in the taking of the ballot and the applause was general when the re-suit had been declared, Hon. Robert L. Berner, president of the senate, presided over the session of the uses. The tenators were given seats in front of the clerk's desk and when order had been restored President Berner directed the secretary, Hon. PRESIDENT CHAPPELL HERE HEAD OF THE GIRLS' NORMAL AND INDUSTRIAL HERE

Tells of the Interesting Work of the School and States That He Will Come Before Legislature.

President J. Harris Chappell, of the Girls' Normal and Industrial college, is in Atlanta. He comes in the interest of the institution of which he is the head and will request from the legislature an appropriation for current expenditures.

President Chappell makes the statement that over 200 applicants have been turned away since September for want of room. Speaking of the school last night he said: "It is in a more flourishing condition than ever before in its history. The only trouble with us now is that we cannot begin to odate all of the girls that want to come. We have an attendance of 400 students, coming from 104 different counties in Georgia. The institution is crowded to its utmost capacity and since the 1st of Santarabas 7 and 1975. eptember I have turned off 200 applicants for want of ro "We need additional buildings greatly, but only a year ago the legislature was so generous as to give us $25,000 for a new dormitory, so we will not ask anything in that way this time. Every room in the new dormitory—Atkinson hall we call it was engaged before the building was com-pleted and I could easily have filled a house twice its size with students. In both dorlitories together we have now 250 boarders and about 100 students are boarding in private families. The dormitories are conducted on the co-operative plan and board costs less than $10 a month, including fuel, ights and laundry, and the garls live well, too; as well in every particular as in fash-ionable female colleges, where they have to pay $18 or $20 a month. "We intend to ask for a small special appropriation to pay for the furnishings and equipment which the trustees were obliged to get for the new dormitory in order to open it for students at the begin-ning of the present session. I feel sure that this we will be granted without a fight. Another thing that I shall try to get the legislature to do is to send a committee from both houses down to Milledgeville to inspect the school now while it is at its every day work. This would be much better than for them to come, as it is at present arranged, to see ment next June. I wish it were possibl for every member of the legislature to visit our school and see it just as it is every school day in the year. I know every man of them would be perfectly charmed would vote for any reasonable appropriation that we might ask for the school. Few people in Georgia have any adequate idea of what a truly great institution it is, and no proper conception of it can be work. I think it is the duty of the legislature to have the school thoroughly in-spected by its committees. It is just as important as the inspection of the lunation asylum or the convict camps, and it would be far more interesting and edifying. I am anxious for the legislature to know what good use we are making of the money they give us. I don't want them to accept it on faith or hearsay; I want them to see for themselves. Our school is doing the grandest and most far-reaching education work now being accomplished in Georgia; there is no possible doubt about that." President Chappel will return to Milledgeville today.

"We have since the organization of this board examined 166 applicants to practice medicine and surgery in this state the past two years. One hundred and fifty-four werelicensed to practice, and twelve were rejected as incompetent.

"We have endeavored in every way possible to get the co-operation of the medical profession and the colleges in our work, and have succeeded to a great extent.

"We have asked the judges of superior courts in this state to charge the grand juries in the various counties of the circuits, the importance of a strict observance of this law, which is the only safeguard of the people against 'quackery.' The profession and the colleges have helped us, and already we feel the good influence of this law in the advancement of medical education in this state.

Resolution.

WAS AMENDED AND DEFEATED

Author Voted Against It After Sen tor Hopkins's Amendment.

WILL BE RECONSIDERED TODAY Senator Battle Will Lead the Fight

for Its Passage—Death of Flynn

Hargett's Father.

Senator Kilpatrick's resolution providing for the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the convict lease system and report a bill thereon came up yesterday norning as special order. After being amended a voto was taker and the resolution was lost, Senator Kilpatrick himself voting against it because of the amendment of Senator Hopkins, which restricted the committee from going out of the state, as the original bill proposed. Senator Kilpatrick said that this amendment done away with the purpose of the bill to a great extent, and he refused to vote for it after the amendment was passed by the senate by a vote of 21 for and 20 against.

The resolution as presented by Senator Kilpatrick provided that a joint committee of three from the senate and five from the house be appointed to investigate the present convict lease system of this state and the systems of other states in the United States and to draft and report a bill to the next term of the present legislature, which will be held in the fall of

This committee, consisting of eight mem ers, was to make this investigation during the months intervening between the adjournment of the present session and the convening of the next session of the legislature. The principal keeper of the penitentiary was also to be a member of the f necessary, and investigate their pen itentiaries, and after the necessary investigation the committee was to draft a bill, asserting what should be done with Georgia's convicts in the future, the bill to be reported to the '97 session of the nt legislature.

members of this committee were to receive $4 per day as compensation for their services, and they were to use as much time in the investigation of the penitentiary system of the several states as hey deemed necessary. Yesterday morning, when the resolution came up as special order, there was ob ection to its passage, and several amend-Many speeches were made both for and against the measure, Senator Kilpatrick made the opening speech. He made a strong argument in favor of the passage of the resolution.

Senator Hopkins followed the senator from the twenty-eighth, speaking against the resolution. He said that he thought the senators could gain enough knowledge about the penitentiaries of the states of this union without appointing the special committee to investigate. He referred to that part of Senator Kilpatrick's speech in which the twenty-eighth's senator said that he had personally investigated some of the different systems of the states.
"It reflects credit upon the gentleman," said Senator Hopkins, "that he has invesgated the different systems. I believe that tors to seek to get knowledge on this que tion without their being appointed on a paid committee. I call your attention, senators, to the report of the principal keeper of the penitentiary. He shows a disposition to offer us suggestions. "I do not believe that we should appoint an expensive committee when we can get the information we want for less cost to the state. Senators, you have no idea what the cost of this committee, traveling from Maine to California would be. The last legislature appointed a pardoning board, which only visited the penitentiary camps of this state, and this legislature will be called upon to pay about $2,500 expenses of this committee. How much more expense would a committee traveling all over the country entail?"

Senator Battle's Reply. Senator Battle replied to the arguments advanced by Senator Hopkins. advanced by Senator Hopkins.
"I regret," he said, "that the senator should oppose a resolution founded as this is, upon the grounds of humanity. Suppose the cost of this committee would reach $50,000 if it would effect the cause for which it is intended. I, for one, would vote for the senator refers to the fact that . The senator refers to the fact that the pardoning committee cost the state the sum of $2,500. If the cost had been ten times that sum what would it have mat-tered if from the confines of a living hell some few unjustly held from the bright light of day and from their homes and the beauties of nature should have been re-leased? What matters a few dollars when the liberty of an innocent man is at stake "If the duties of this committee does take it from Maine to California let it go. If it takes it from the confines of this country, if it will be of help to the suffering, I for one say let it go. What is this committee to be appointed for?"

Reading from Senator Kilpatrick's resolution Senator Battle read:

"It shall be the duty of this committee to breathers the workings of the prices." to investigate the workings of the prison and reformatory system and discipline of the several states of this union and of ofter civilized nations where practible and after such investigation draft and and after such investigation draft and report to the general assembly a suitable bill providing for the disposition of the convicts of this state after the expiration of the term of the present lease; said investigation and bill looking always to the adoption of such humane legislation as will reclaim to good citizenship those criminals capable of being reformed and just and adequate pumishment of all violators of the criminal law and the protection of society against the vicious members tion of society against the vicious m

NORTH GEORGIA CONFERENCE WILL MEET AT DALTON ON NO-VEMBER 25TH.

The Conference Will Remain in Session for About One Week with Many Ministers To Be There.

The thirtieth annual convention of the North Georgia conference will assemble at Dalton on Wednesday, the 25th of Novem-ber. Fully 375 delegates will be in attendance, about 275 of whom will be cierical members and the rest will be prominent members of the church.

The session will continue for about one week, and will be presided over by Bishop A. W. Wilson, of Baltimore. During the week services will be held every morning and night, and many prominent ministers from all over the state will deliver ser-mons to the members of the conference. The 375 delegates who will be at the conference represent about 95,000 church memodists in north Georgia. In this conference those ministers whose time for conducting services of certain churches has expired will be appointed to new charges According to the rules of the Methodist church, no minister is allowed to have charge of any one church for more than our years. When that limit has been reached, they are given ofher churches, which they take charge of during the next four years. The same rule applies to the bishops. While Bishop Wilson will preside over this con erence next year, he will probably be succeeded by some other bishop of the Method-ist church. Many of the local ministers and lay members will be in attendance at the conference.

lands and fields of planters. The convict question was brought out by the introduction of a bill by Hon. Morgan Rawls, of Effingham county, who favors the passage of a law making it a misdemeanor for guards or other persons to whip convicts except by the consent and in the presence of some county officer elected by the people. Mr. Berry, of Whitfield, launches the prohibition question by introducing a bill which is aimed to put all liquids which may be intoxicating or known as malt liquors under restriction of the law. Mr. Clements, of Gwinnett, offered a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the cause of the filling of the river bed of the Chattahoochee.

To Protect Convicts Mr. Rawls's bill was read and referred to the committee on penitentiary. In speaking of the measure he said: "I think my bill is worthy of considera tion by this legislature. The bill is to prevent cruel and unjust punishment of convicts by requiring punishment to be by the consent and in the presence of an elected county officer, and making corporal punshment of convicts without such conse and supervision a misdemeanor.

"The complaint of cruelty was an important question in the late state campaign and the democratic candidates received a large colored vote on a promise to investigate and correct such evil. Cruelty is evolting to civilization, and especially so when inflicted upon those who are at our mercy."

Lick at Rice Beer.

Mr. Berry's liquor bill is aimed at rice beer and all other intoxicating or malt liquors which are not included in the existing law regulating the sale of liquors. Mr. Berry proposes to amend the section requiring the taking out of license by inserting the words, "intoxicating or malt iquors," so that the section will read as follows: "Section 431. If any person shall keep a tippling shop or sell without the license, and taking the oath prescribed by law, or sell by retail any wine, brandy, rum, gin, or whisky, or other spirituous, intoxicating or malt liquors, or any mixture of such liquors, in any house or other place, without license from the proper authorities in said county, or without license from the corporate authorities of any town or city when by law authority to grant license is vested in such corporate authorities, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. No person shall be liable to indictment in the superior courts for a violation of this section.

The resolution recites that the bottom of the river is rapidly filling and that thousands of farmers and others believe the same is caused by the work of the miners in Lumpkin county and other north Georgia counties who excavate and so place loose ground that it is washed into the river and down stream, gradually causing the bed of the stream to fill up and causing the river to overflow into the bottom lands and into the fields of farmers.

Judge Candler Announces That He He Will Send All Night Time Burglars Up the Full Limit.

In the future all burglars who are convicted before Judge Candler may expect the full penalty of the law.

This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Judge Candler when he passed sentence upon Buford Shelley, a negro who was convicted of entering the residence of Mr. Horine, on Capitol avenue, and stealing a sust of clothes, $60 in cash and a gold watch.

The negro was convicted by the jury after it had been out only a few minutes, but Judge Candler deferred passing sentence until later in the afternoon, after all other cases of the day had been dis-

The verdict returned in this case is a righteous finding, and is the only verdict that could be rendered in the case. Not since I have been judge of the criminal court have I been called upon to pass judgment on a case that is as bold, and one that possesses as few redeeming features. There is nothing in the evidence to excuse the prisoner. He entered the residence of Mr. Horine without provocation, He entered the home in the night, by forcibly breaking a window. He entered the sleeping room and went for the purpose of

When a man enters a private residence in the hour of the night I take it for granted that the burglar would commit murder were he detected in the unlawful act of stealing. He is supposed to be armed, and it is natural that he would do murder before he would submit to arrest. Therefore the law regards this man as regards to all purposes in the same light as a murderer at heart, for a burglar will shoot if he is caught while in the private room o ise which he has burglarized. This anyone who might molest him and prevented him from carrying out his purpose.

case of this kind. I have no power to hange the law, and would not do so if it laws on the statute books. The law provides that I pass the extreme penalty on a burglar who breaks and enters a man's private home and steals therefrom. If the jury had found a verdict acquitting this prisoner I think I would have cancelled it and sentenced him to a long term of years, but as the jury found him guilty, I give tence him to twenty years at hard labor the First Ward.

TO IMPOSE EXTREME PENALTY SEVEN NAMES ALREADY OUT

Sheriff Barnes, G. T. Eubanks, James Mayson, W. M. Curtis, W. T. Fincher and Others.

The resignation of Councilman L. P. homas from the city council has caused a lively str in local political circles. The indications are that there will be a large field of candidates eager to succeed him. Seven have already been announced by their friends-and there are others.

Mayor King has not ordered another election, but he will do so within a few days. The papers of resignation were not handed to him yesterday, and until he receives official notice of Colonel Thomas's withdrawal from the council he will not ssue his order for a new election. The papers will be sent to him in a day or two, owever, and it is probable that before the week is ended he will order the election to take place with the regular election in December.

Colonel Thomas's unexpired term is for one year. In December the councilmen for full two years' terms will be voted for. The regular nominations have been made. Whether the democratic executive committee will take any action toward securing a regular nomination for the successor to Colonel Thomas is not known. The probabilities are, however, that there will be no nomination, but all candidates for the position will be allowed to contest in the regular December election in a free for all race.

None of the candidates for Colonel Thomas's seat have formally announced their candidacy through the newspapers, but one, Mr. G. T. Eubanks, has publicly announced his candidacy to his friends and acquaintances, and his formal newspaper notification will be sent in today.

Mr. Eubanks lives at No. 82 Walker street. He has been a resident of Atlanta for eighteen years and is very popular all over the city. His friends were very anxlous to have him run in the late primary, but he declined to do so. As soon as the notice of Colonel Thomas's resignation was read in yesterday's Constitution his friends again urged him to run. This time he has consented, and he will make the race to win. He is a young and vigorous tian, thirty-five years of age, and thor-oughly well known in the first ward, which has always been his home since he moved to Atlanta Sheriff J. J. Barnes was urged to run and may consent to do so. vesterday if he would make the race he but admitted that he had been urged to run by many of his friends.

Mr. James L. Mayson, of the firm of Mayson & Hill, was spoken of yesterday as probable candidate. He is one of the mos opular members of the Atlanta bar. He s a son of Councilman Mayson, of the first ward, who retires from the counci on January 1st, to give place to Mr. Milton Mr. Mayson is a member of th board of education and has proved himself to be one of the most efficient that body.

Dr. W. M. Curtis, who was defeated by Mr. Camp in the recent primary, is said to be a candidate for the office. He has not held public office in recent years. Dr Curtis has a drug store at the corner of Peters and Walker streets. He has served efficiently on the board of health for long time and is well known not only in the first ward, but throughout the city. Mr. W. T. Fincher, a prominent mer

A committee was appointed to confe with Mr. Samuel Inman, the principal do-nor, in regard to the lack of support which the institution was receiving from othe ontributors. The expense of running the orphanage is very great, and the require-ments specified in Mr. Inman's gift was that half of the expense should be contributed by others than himself. This was done for several years but of late the burden has fallen almost entirely upon Mr. Inman, and the beard of managers, at ter due consideration, decided that it was unfair to Mr. Inman to allow the orphanage to continue under existing circum-

Mr. Inman has offered to provide for the orphans still left in the institution. They will be sent elsewhere. There are not many of them left, the larger number having been comfortably provided for. The reasons why the orphanage will be closed are clearly set forth below in a communication from a committee of the board of man agers, consisting of Mrs. A. D. Adair and Mrs. E. H. Werner, which is as follows: "The board of managers of the Jennie

It has been found impossible to keep the specified num-ber of full orphans required by Mr. Inman's gift. There are now less than twen-ty-five in the home. The terms required were that a sum be contributed by the public equal to that fund given annually by Mr. Inman, to which was added the free rental of the beautiful house and grounds on Forsyth street. The Blue Ridge Circuit. (Communicated.)

One of the arguments used with most force by those who are opposed to the nomination of Judge Gober as one of the candidates of the democratic party for jus-tice of the supreme court is derived from the fact that he has been known as a candidate for the position whenever amendments to the constitution increasing the number of justices have been proposed and three times the people of his circuit have given large majorities against such amendment. It is claimed by his friends that the citizens of the Blue Ridge circuit love him and wish to see him removed from the judgeship of that circuit and translated to the supreme court bench, yet in the last election the counties in his circult gave a majority of 2,614 against the constitutional amendment. His own counconstitutional amendment. His own country-Cobb-went against it, though it is a strong democratic county and gave a large majority for Governor Atkinson. This be-comes more significant because it appears from the returns that the Blue Ridge circuit is the only circuit in the state which vote of the counties of Judge Gober's cir-

Baltimore, November 17.-The much-talked-about Seaboard Air-Line deal received a knockout blow this afternoon when the committee which has some 8,000 shares of stock pooled refused to turn it over to the syndicate headed by Mr. Thomas F. Ryan, of New York. The decision was a great surprise to everyone except President Hoffman and a few of his associates. It was a signal victory for the Seaboard's president. When the arrangement was made at the Portsmouth meeting looking to a sale of a controlling interest in the Seaboard company, there were few who ment this evening that the deal was entirely off and that the road would hereafter be conducted as an independent line as heretofore was not at first credited. It was only after President Hoffman confirmed the statement that it was generally be

Mr. Hoffman declined to give any details, but a stockholder gave this view of the President Hoffman's opposition to the sale was well known, and as soon as Mr. Ryan's representatives began to buy stock Mr. Hoffman's friends came to his support and purchased all they could obtain with the view of pooling it for his benefit. We have really had the upper hand in the fight from the start, but have said nothing. When the impression became general among the stockholders that Mr. Ryan really represented J. P. Morgan & Co., the New York bankers, who control the policy of the Southern Railway Company, and its eventual control by the Southern Railway, we gained ground rapidly and were favored rather than Mr. Ryan, in spite of the high price he offered for the stock." Just before leaving Portsmouth, Va., whither he went late this afternoon on usiness connected with the system, the executive of the Seaboard Air-Line gave out the following statement: "Under the terms of the pooling agree ment," said President Hoffman, "no sale of the pooled stock can be made without the assent of three-fourths of the stock pooled. There are 8,321 shares in the pool, and as less than one-half of that amount gave their assent there will be no sale.

"The vote also shows that the stockholders have every confidence in the fu ture of the property and in the present management. The importance of keeping an independent line to the south can scarcely be over-estimated, and no doubt influenced the vote of Baltimore, Norfolk and Portsmouth stockholders. Had this line got into the hands of New York parties representing the Southern railway there would be but one line to the south, and that in the hands of New York, and these cities would have suffered accordingly in "The future of the system now looks very promising as the first three months of the ourrent fiscal year show large net gains over the corresponding months of 1895, and the fact that the Ryan syndicate has been willing to pay par for even a minority interest shows the results of their study of the board Air-Line.

"Under the present management," con-tinued Mr. Hoffman, "the road has been honestly operated in the interest of its stockholders and of those holding its secu rities, amounting to many millions of dollars. Should a change throw its control into the hands that seek only a personal profit or to serve the ends of a competitive carrier, it might be difficult to overestimate the danger that would threater all interested in the system.

"The public, I think, is to be congratu-lated that this line is still independent and will be run in the future as in the past, looking to the interest of the Baltimore and the southern cities, with which its trade relations are the most intimate and important."

In commenting upon the failure of the Ryan syndicate, The Manufacturers' Recsecure a controlling interest in the Sea board Air-Line should cause profound thanksgiving, not only throughout the south, but wherever there exists any in-terest in the future of this section. That the concentration of ownership of all railroads in the central south in New York hands would prove a serious injury to this section, and eventually to all southern railroad securities, admits of no question. 'In the first place, competition is essential to the best interests of the south; it is essential to the description of the south; it is tial to the best interests of the south; it is essential to the success of its merchants, manufacturers and farmers; it is essential to the best failroad work for the upbuilding of its industrial resources and the encouragement of immigration. The Seaboard Air-Line has given this much needed competition. No railroad company in the country has done better and broader work for the material advancement of the country tributary to it than has the Seaboard. "In the second place, the purchase of the Seaboard would have been regarded by the south as the gobbling up of the least the Seaboard would have been regarded by the south as the gobbling up of the last independent line north of Atlanta, and this would have given the politicians of the populistic persuasion a new fighting ground

The failure of Mr. Ryan's negotiations for the purchase of the Seaboard does not come as a surprise to the readers of The Constitution. It was intimated last week that the transfer of the stock was uncertain. ure of the deal. Of late the Seaboard has been making more money than the management dreamed to be possible six months ago. The pool did not get all the stock as who held securities not only of the Sea-board and Roanoke, but also the Raleigh and Gaston, the Georgia, Carolina and Northern and other properties of the Sea board system. Such persons were not dis-posed to part with their Seaboard and Roanoke stock, and thus turn the manage-ment of the other lines into the hands of whom they did not know.

The contract for the delivery of the stock to the syndicate did not appear to be bind ing from the synopsis given out from time to time. From things which members of the McLane pool and of the Ryan syndicate said of the contract, it was merely an agreement to transfer the pooled stock if three-fourths of the stock owners voted in the stock owners voted in the stock owners would be a supplementation of the supplementatio favor of the sale. President Hoffman got the stock in his hands, and then the owners did not vote to sell it. They preferred to let him run the Seaboard. Under the let 'him run the Seaboard. Under the terms of the pool, Mr. Hoffman has the pooled stock for five years. He has enough of it to retain control, and he is in a firmer position than ever. General John Gill, of Baltimore, for years a close busi-ness friend of Mr. Hoffman's, started the deal for the sale of the Seaboard, and at one time he stated that President Hoffman would soon be out of the property. Mr. would soon be out of the property. Mr. Hoffman determined not to be sold out, and proceeded to run a counter campaign. General Gill had injunction proceedings brought against the Seaboard up in Virginia to stop the rate war, and later began to buy Seaboard and Roaroke stock, offering $100 a share for it. He got 2,700 shares out of a total of 11,700. Mr. Ryan took this off his bands less Friday so General Gill appears. hands last Friday; so General Gill appears to have no further connection with the deal. Mr. Ryan has bought a small minor-dity interest, and he appears to have been caught. If he paid $100 a share for 2,700 shares, he invested $270,000, and has not half enough stock to control. Court Reverses Commission. When a railway company has provided grade crossings with gates for the use of farm owners, it cannot be compelled also to build undergrade passages for the convenience of the farmer and his cattle. So rules the Iowa supreme court in reversing a decision of the district court, which had sustained an order of the state railroad commission requiring the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern company to build such a causeway. The crossing was found to be of the kind contemplated in the statute, and fully up to the standard of the usual farm crossing at grade, the only complaint being that the gates have to be opened and closed. The court considers the order of the railroad commission unreasonable, and remarks of the complainant's demand: "That it would be convenient and to some extent profitable for Mr. Warnock to have both means of crossing, there can be no question. It would be convenient that his stock might pass at pleasure, and profitable in the advantage of his stock and the saying in labor in drying them during profitable in the advantage of his stock and the saving in labor in driving them during the pasture season. It would no doubt be convenient and may be profitable to Mr. Warnock if the railroad was entirely re-moved from his farm, but it is rightfully there and subject to the duty of providing him adequate means of crossing. While convenience and profit to the landowner convenience and profit to the landowner and expense to the company are proper to be considered, neither taken alone is neces-sarily ground for making or refusing an rder like that in question.

TURNER'S REPORT IN

Principal Keeper of the Penitentiary Files His Annual Statement.

TELLS OF THE CONVICTS YEAR

Full History of the Past Twelve Months Among Them.

FALLING OFF IN THE NUMBER OF CONVICTS

The Principal Keeper Makes Some Interesting Recommendations. What He Has To Say.

The annual report of Judge J. S. Tur-ner, principal keeper of the penitentiary, for the year ending September 20, 1896, is one of the most interesting as well as one of the best reports ever issued from that

The report gives a great amount of valviable information in regard to the condi-tion of the camps, the number of prisoners, confined in them and the offense for which the inmates were convicted. All information concerning the penitentiary is

The report shows that the number of priscners sent to the penitentiary this year is less than it has been during a period of eighteen years. It is the first time that there has not been an increase in the number of prisoners in a great while.

On October 1, 1895, there were confined in the penitentiary 2,424 convicts, while a date of the report of this year there were on hand 2,357 convicts, which is sixty-seven less than last year, or a decrease of 2.67 per cent. Keeper Turner attributes the decrease in number to the Jenkins sub-stitute for the Hall b'll, which was enacted by the last general assembly.
There are now in the state, as shown by the report, twenty-six convict camps which is five more than last year and more than ever before in the history of the stata. In speaking of the different eatings and the great distance of some of them or each other, Judge Turner praises Assistant Keeper Moore for the efficient work one by him in visiting the camps. The tion of the camps, says the report, is far better than it has ever been since Judge Turner has had charge of the de-partment. The report shows that the camps bordering on the Okefenokee swamp, which it was thought would be unhealthy, have proved to be the healthlest camps in the entire state, only one death having occurred at them during the entire year.

A table in the report shows the number of convicts now in the pentitentiary and the different crimes for which they were convicted. The largest number in the penitentiary were sent there for burglary, and their number is 870. The number of lar-canies is 264. Nearly 50 per cent of the entire number wer esent there for these two

Another table shows that the convicts imprisoned in the penitentiary at the age of sixteen and under number 144, which does not account for fully as many more who have been discharged. The present system of punishment, says the keeper, so far as convicts of this age are concerned, is barbarous and inhumane. This table shows come criminals between the ages of sixteen and twenty-six.

In closing his report, Judge Turner states that he is of the opinion that the working of the convicts on the public roads would be dangerous and unwise. He recnds that the general assembly provide for the appointment of a commission with power to thoroughly investigate the penal systems of the several states and report to its next session the facts ob-tained and their suggestions based on the most interesting parts of the report are as follows: Excellency, W. Y. Atkinson, Gov-Sir: I have the honor to submit the ing annual report for the penitentia-ariment for the year ending Septem-

"The commitments to the penitentiary, I am glad to say, show a decided falling off from the number in my last report, and is the second time only, during the lease, a period of eighteen years, that the records have not shown a decided increase in the period of eighteen years, that the records have not shown a decided increase in the prison population.

"By reference to table No. 1, it will be seen that the net decrease since October 1, 1895, is 2.67 per cent, or numerically, sixty-seven less than on that date, there having been then 2,424 convicts, while the number now on hand is 2,877. This table shows the prison population, by race and sex, at the date of each report of the penitentiary department, from April 1, 1879, when the lease act went into operation, to this date, together with the numerical and percentage increase or decrease, and to that extent is a complete history of the penitentiary.

extent is a complete history of the penitentiary.

"The death rate for the pest year has been larger than for the year previous, but it is still smaller than in a large majority of the prisons of the United States and compares most favorably with that of any community in the state. I still believe, as stated in my last report, that this is largely due to the kind of labor in which the prisoners are engaged, and the fact that they are not congregated within walls.

"Mark Brown, November 29, 1895, killed car. ren Crawford, March 7, 1896, killed

"Sam West, June 18, 1836, killed by cas while trying to escape.

"The killing of the remaining six was as follows: October 4, 1835, Neal Smith, a trusty, who was engaged in carrying water from a spring about two hundred yards from where a squad of convicts under guard was working on a railroad, assaulted a young we man whom he encountered and was taken from the prison by an armed mob and killed. A thorough investigation of the facts in this case was made by this department and the report thereon is now on file in the executive department.

"October 29, 1835: Bill Armor, having stolen a rifle from the guards' room, made a break for liberty, was fired upon, but succeeded in escaping. Several days afterwards he was found dead in Alabama from wounds received when escaping.

"December 1, 1835, Charles Seagraves made a murderous attack upon one of the camp officials with an iron shovel and was shot and killed.

"February 8, 1836, Gilbert Kendrick was camp with a coal shovel, was shot and instantly killed.

"September 2, 1896, William Reid ran out from under the guns in attempting to escape and was fired upon and killed.

"In each of these cases the camp officials were exonerated from blame by the coroner's jury and a copy of the verdict and evidence on the hearing was laid before the grand jury of the county in which the killing occurred.

"I do not deem it necessary to refer with particularity to the investigation made by your excellency of the two cases of brutal whippings inflicted by the whipping boss at Kramer, in Wileox county, which were reported by me after investigation, with the request that you remove the officer in charge and take such other steps as might be deemed necessary. The orders citing the parties interested, removing the whipping boss and imposing fines of $1,400 are matters of record and demand no further comment.

"In July last, pursuant to executive or

"In July last, pursuant to executive orders, growing out of the investigation previously had in February, I removed from Cole City 400 convicts belonging to penitentary companies two and three and delivered them to the president of said complete.

ders, growing out of the investigation previously had in February, I removed from Cole City 400 convicts belonging to penitentiary companies two and three and delivered them to the president of said companies in Atlanta, from which point they were distributed among the lessees of said companies in proportion to the amount of stock controlled by them.

"I am glad to state that the removal was made without accident, and was the largest transfer of convicts ever made in Georgia. I am under personal obligation to Mr. Julius Brown, president of the Dade Coal Company, who controlled the camps from which the removal was made, for his valuable assistance, without which the transfer would have been much more difficult and dangerous.

would have been much more difficult and dangerous.
"Table No. 4 shows the number of convicts now in the penitentiary for different offenses, and nearly the same proportion exists as indicated in my last report. The largest number of convictions for one offense being for the crime of burglary, the number being 570 or 35 per cent of the whole number. The number for larcenies being 264, aggregating with burglary nearly 60 per cent of the whole number now in prison. From the records in this office, this is about the proportion which has existed for years, and as these two offenses are the ones more largely affected by the Jenkins bill, the result in one yeer being a decrease of 107, it is to be hoped that the decrease will continue at least in the same proportion, which by the expiration of the lease would leave only about 2,000 in the penitentiary.
"In table No. 5 is given the ages of the lease would leave only about 2,000 in the penitentiary.

"In table No. 5 is given the ages of the present prison population, at the dates of their reception. This table shows that there are now in the penitentiary 144 convicts who were imprisoned at sixteen years of age and under. This does not account for fully as many more who have been discharged in the past few years by expiration of sentence. It is needless to urge that the present system of punishment, so far at least as convicts of this age are concerned, is barbarous and inhumane. It is the worst feature of the present system, and will doubtless be corrected by this general assembly, when it provides for the disposition of the convicts at the expiration of the lease contract.

"From a more standard," this table is the lease contract.

"From a moral standpoint, this table is "From a moral standpoint, this table is most interesting and instructive. It shows that a large majority of the convicts become criminals between the ages of sixteen and twenty-six, and that it is between these ages that young men and women need the influence and guardianship of education and moral surroundings. It is the age during which character is formed, and all the statistics indicate that after this age is passed, crimes are rarely committed. "The pardon board created by the last

"The pardon board created by the last general assembly has, by recommendation to your excellency, been the means of discharging many convicts, who deserved executive elemency. From my general knowledge of the prisoners, I think there are still ofhers now in confinement who should be discharged, and I cannot too strongly recommend to the legislature the necessity of creating a permanent commission of pardons, which will complete the humane work already begun.

"Table No. 6 shows the present population by counties, and may be of assistance to the general assembly in legislating a final disposition of the convicts, when the present contract expires.

to the general assembly in legislating a final disposition of the convicts, when the present contract expires.

"I attach hereto as table No. 7 the annual statement of convict hire due by the companies, and individual stockholders therein. By reference thereto it will be seen that the daily cost of hire per capita, to the lessees, was less than 3 cents.

"I am still of the opinion that the suggestions embodied in my last report about the final disposition of the convicts are good, and that it would be dangerous and unwise to place them upon the public roads, or congregate them within walls.

"Looking to a final wise adjustment of this serious question, I think the general assembly should provide for the appointment of a commission with power to thoroughly investigate the different penal systems of the several states, and report to its next session the facts obtained by such threeting tion, and their suggestions based thereon.

"In closing my report. I her leave to thereon.

"In closing my report, I beg leave to thank your excellency for the many favors shown me, and for your valuable assistance and advice, which have made the duties of my office much less onerous and severe.

SPELLING BEE LAST NIGHT.

The Y. M. C. A. Was the Scene of an Enthusiastic Meeting.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at the Young Men's Christian Association last evening. The occasion had been advertised as a spelling bee, and it did start as one, but before the evening had been ended it was converted into one of the most enthusiastic meetings that it has been the pleasure of the officers of the association to see in a long while.

When all the members had assembled sides were chosen for the spelling bee Mr. Harry Lewis took one side and Mr Ward Carroway took the other. Three times were the two sides spelled out, but Mr. Carroway's side came off victorious, winning two out of the three matches.

After the bee was over refreshments

Punch Robertson drew a large house at the Lyceum theater last night, and pleased them with his production of "The Buck-eye." His good support was seen to good advantage, and the many specialties were well received. "The Buckeye" has been seen in Atlanta before, but it was never better presented. Mr. Robertson is good, while Miss Fannie Granger, the souhrette, made quite a hit with her songs and clever work. The other members of the company are good.

During the third act Mr. Robertson made the announcement that on Saturday night a $100 high grade wheel would be given to the holder of the lucky number given at each performance. If a lady, she will re-ceive a ladies' wheel of the same make. At the matinee a special prize will be given to the ladies in the way of a handsome gold watch. To some young girl pres-ent will be given one of the handsomest dolls that has ever been seen in Atlanta, To some boy in the audience a patrol wagon will be given. Today at matinee Mr. Robertson will pre-

Lewis Morrison Coming. The law of heredity was never better exemplified than in the case of Rosabe forrison. She has inherited the wonderful dramatic vigor which has made her father, Lewis Morrison, famous. She has that one indescribable spark of genius and mag-netism without which it is impossible to mount the ladder of fame. No amount of talent or ability can carry the dramatic artist to success without this spark of genius. In "Carmen" Miss Morrison has found a part so thoroughly congenial to her that she has achieved success with but little effort. It is exactly opposite to Marguerite, in "Faust," in which role she first became prominent. Her performance of "Carmen" has met with the most fulsome praise.

In appearance she is peculiarly adapted to the bewitching Spanish gypsy, and she plays the character with that bewitching abandon and subtlety that had much to do with the original story of Prosper Merimee. Miss Morrison's supporting company is exceptionally strong. Edward Elsner, one of the very best of the younger generation of leading men, plays Don Jose. As a scenic production this performance is also noteworthy, showing as it does view of Seville with the famous Giralda tower, from which, by the by, was mod-eled the Madison Square tower in New York; the "patio" of Lillas Pastia, and the exterior of the bull ring in Cordova. It is in this latter scene that will be presented one of the greatest novelties yet seen on any stage, in the shape of the wonderful eidoloscope, by means of which will be produced an actual bull fight lasting fifteen minutes. The entire performance will be given with a care to detail worthy the great play. The engagement in this city will take place at the Lyceum on next Monday and Tuesday.

All that has been said of this wonderful instrument cannot do it justice. It is simply wonderful. Miss Lucile Stur-gis, an Atlanta girl, who is just now the talk of Gotham, is shown in one of her skirt dances. A fire scene was next shown, the fire laddies rescuing children from a burning building. . The third scene was that of two Irishmen discussing politics over their beer. Every motion was true to life. The smoke from their pipes, curling to the ceiling, the beer in the glasses and the fight were all wonderfully realistic.

But the best of all was the famous kiss taken from Widow Jones. It took the house by storm and had to be repeated sev-

Production. Klaw & Erlanger's big extravaganza production, "In Gay New York," has been successful in making new records in the amount of business done at nearly every point it has visited. It recently surprised everybody in touch with theatrical business by playing to nearly $10,000 in one week in St. Louis. The organization is one of the largest that has been seen in recent years, and involves the expenditure each week of a sum that most companies would be willing to accept as gross re-ceipts. It is stated on good authority that the weekly expense of this company ap-

PLANS FOR A MARKET

Scheme To Establish One on the Markham Site Meets Approval.

OWNERS READY TO MAKE TRADE

City Council Has Appointed a Committee To Investigate.

OTHER CITIES FIND MARKETS PROFITABLE

Sesides Being Great Conveniences They Furnish City with Large Revenue-Market Needed Badly.

The propisition to erect a fine city market on the site of the old Markham house met with general approval yesterday. The action of the city council in appointing committee to investigate the matter and confer with the owners to see what arrangement can be made was commended on all sides.

A central public market has long been needed in Atlanta and the erection of one that would be an ornament to the city has often been discussed, but for the reason that no suitable site could be obtained except at enormous cost the plans have always failed to materialize.

The burning of the Markham leaves large plot of ground vacant which furnishes an ideal site for a market and it is said by those who have investigated the subject that the property can be pur-chased or leased at a reasonable cost.

Every one practically is agreed that no better site could be picked for a public market. The geographical center of the city is just eight feet from the corner of the Markham house lot between the Markham and the carshed. Nearly all of the largest cities have central markets. Among the southern cities which conduct them and find them not only satisfactory sources of revenue to the city, but great conveniences as well are Knoxville, Charleston, Columbus, Savannah, Montgomery, Louisville and Washington, D. C. In the larger cities kets are among the most necessary in-stitutions of the cities.

The committee appointed by the city council to confer with the owners of the Markham property are Councilmen Hutch-ison, Tolbert, Adamson, Mayson and Morris.

The owners of the property are Dr. R. D. Spalding, Messrs, John Silvey, B. O. Dougherty, George A. Speer, W. J. Speer and Mrs. John R. Gramling. Dr. Spalding is the manager of the property. When seen yesterday in regard to the proposition

The ordinances which are passed by elties which have markets provide that the things which are sold in markets shall not be sold elsewhere throughout the city except within certain hours. The markets isually open at 4 o'clock in the morning and the butchers, fish and vegetable shops in other parts of the city are not allowed to sell until 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning. Dr. Spalding said that in case the owners build the market house they would want only such protection to guarantee the success of the undertaking as is granted in other large cities. They, however, would not be willing, he said, to undertake the building of a market house un-less the city would give them this protec-tion in the shape of legislation.

The Markham house property embraces a plot 165 feet front on Loyd street and 317 feet back toward Collins street. In case the market is decided upon it is probable that purchases will be made of probable that purchases will be made of other lots adjoining the Markham lot se that the market would extend from the railroad tracks to Decatur street. The market stalls in most of the cities average ten square feet and the rental of these stalls being from $20 to $50 each per year. The markets are usually run and owned by the cities and the revenue therefrom is usually a splendid source of income to the city. A market could be established on the Markham plot that would be a credit to the city.

Atlanta, Ga., November 17.—The fluctuations in prices today were confined within a narrow range. The trading was quiet and in the main of a professional character. At the opening prices were 1 point lower to 2 points higher. Liverpool was lower for futures, and selling orders were received from that market early in the day, but subsequently Liverpool bought. New Orleans was a moderate buyer and local shorts covered. Prices rallied and advanced slightly, closing quiet and steady at a net advance of 2 to 4 points with sales of 165,400. New Orleans sold here before the close, and a large estimate of the semi-weekly movement also had a weakening effect on prices. Semi-weekly estimate 100,000, against 78,000.last week. In New Orleans January advanced 5 points, but lost part of the rise. Liverpeol was unchanged on the spot with sales of 10,000. Futures there declined ½ to 1 point. Port receipts were 50,024 against 48,622 last week. 38,6540. part of the rise. Liverpool was unchanged on the spot with sales of 10,000. Futures there declined ½ to 1 point. Port receipts were 59,024, against 49,622 last week, 38,640 last year and 69,653 in 1894. Thus far for week 155,642, against 137,333 last week. Augusta received today 4,140, against 2,022 and 998; St. Louis 820, against 886 and 1,963; Cincinnati 660, against 1,440 and 2,256; Memphis 4,864, against 2,490 and 2,827; Houston 16,300, against 14,740 and 12,393. Memphis shipped today 2,691, St. Louis 3,631 and Houston 11,497. Houston receipts tomorrow are estimated at 7,500 to 8,500, against 4,699 last week and 5,809 last year; New Orleans expects 10,000 to 11,000, against 10,808 and 14-388. Spots in New York were unchanged with sales of 79 for spinning; middling 734c. Mobile, Savannah and Norfolk declined 1-16c, and Charleston and St. Louis 42c. New Orleans sold 6,000, Augusta 960, Norfolk 735, St. Louis 525, Mobile 500 and Savannah 1,000 bales. The following is the range of cotton futures in New York yesterday:

Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, November 17.—The increase in the movement is bringing to light the effect of the demand from the American spinners which is causing the southern markets to be relatively higher than our own and bringing the New Orleans quotation close to a normal parity. There is an increase in the demand from the contimarkets to be relatively higher than our own and bringing the New Orleans quotation close to a normal parity. There is an increase in the demand from the continental spinners which relawed the pressure on Liverpool. The latter market was a buyer here this morning of the nearby deliveries, but toward the close has sold the distant positions freely, creating a weak tone for a time. From the dry goods market we hear many encouraging reports, but the movement at the moment is discouraging to the trade who, while believing that it results from the marketing of the cotton held back, would like to feel assured that it does not represent the correctness of the increased crop estimates recently reported from New Orleans. It is evident that the immediate pressure on this market is over. Dispatches from New Orleans report the movement on the Mississippi to be very large, but the market closed steady at the best prices of the day. Eastern brokers report an increased spinning demand. The semi-weekly movement is expected to be large.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, November 17.—Spot cotton here was unchanged. Liverpool was unchanged on the spot with sales of 10,000 bales. Futures, there declined ½ to 1 point. The port receipts were $2,024. Futures here advanced 4 to 5 points, but reacted slightly, closing quiet with sales of 165,400 bales.

The trading today was quiet and the fluctuations were confined within extremely narrow limits. At the opening prices were irregular, but on buying for southern, Liverpool and continental account, as well as some covering by local shorts, prices slowly advanced. Before the close there was a slight reaction on a large estimate of the semi-weekly movement and increased receipts at the ports. The semi-weekly receipts were estimated at 100,000 bales, against 78,000 last week. The increase in the port receipts was due to the arrival at Port Royal of 8,500 bales for shipment to Liverpool. Spot markets at the south were generally easier and less active.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York, November 17.—(Special.)—
Liverpool was rather better than had been expected today and our market opened a faw points higher, but the receipts were again staggering in volume and the improvement was soon lost. The day was a rather dull one, the bulls being afraid to buy and the bears not caring to sell. The feeling grew better in the afternoon, January opened at 7.68, declined to 7.62, railied to 7.69 and closed at 7.67@7.68, with the tone quiet and steady. It is useless to deny the fact that the receipts of the last ten days have been a bitter disappointment to the bulls, who now constitute nine-tenths of the traders here. If these receipts keep up prices will go lower, but we are trusting that each day will bring us some relief from the unexpected avalanche of cotton which is forcing the market downward.

The Dry Goods Market. The Dry Goods Market.

New York, November 17.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, in its weekly review of the dry goods market, says: The market during the early part of the week under review was attended by a large number of buyers and a decidedly improved spot business was the result. Mail orders also showed an increase from the augmented force of buyers on the road. During the past two days matters have quieted down considerably. As a rule buyers' orders, although averaging larger individually in cotton goods profit in that before the low-priced stocks than before the election, have been of moderate dimensions and hardly calculated to do more than take care of present and near at hand requirements. Sellers, even with buyers operating so conservatively, have moved off a goodly volume of merchandise at steady to firm prices. The tone in staple cottons at the close of the week is quiet, but prices are without change. Print cloths have declined 1-ise and large sales have been made at the lower figure. In the woolen goods division dress goods for spring have been in better request, but men's wear fabrics are still inactive.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Speculation Closed Weak at Generally Lower Prices. New York, November 17.-Taken altogether the movements at the stock exchange to-day were less important than on any previous day since the election. Operators were mixed in their views as to the market, and business was of a hand-to-mouth character throughout the session. The developments, if anything, were favorable to higher prices, the balance of trade in our favor shown by the October statement of the foreign commerce of the United States being supplemented by exports of produce and merchandise from this port for the week ending today of over $11,000,000, the largest total for any one week in several years. In addition to these favorable trade conditions, the rate for long sterling was reduced 1/2c and money worked easy. On the other hand the apathy of the foreigners, who sold small amounts of stocks during the morning and the fear of complications with Spain, in consequence of the Cuban insurrection, tended to induce caution on the part of the speculators generally. The belief that the St. Paul statement for the second week of November, to be issued tonight, will make a poor comparison with last year's receipts operated against the entire Granger group, although at one time they showed an advance of 46% per cent on the closing quotations of yesterday. The improvement was subsequently lost. Sugar, after rising to 119%, declined to 117%. The continued liquidations for inside account give color to the reports that the trusts expects to have fresh competition in the near future, and that officials are also disinclined to load up on account of the near approach of the reassembling of congress Manhattan and Metropolitan Traction sold off about a point, but the latter recovered on the announcement that the directors contemplated paying a scrip dividend of 20 per cent. Pacific Mail again ruled higher on the expectation that the directors will declare a dividend of 1 per cent tomorrow In the late afternoon dealings American Spirits advanced 15% for the common and 2% for the preferred. The transactions aggregated only 181,649 shares, including 24,700 Sugar, 18,700 St. Paul, 13,700 Reading and 11,700 American Spirits. Speculation closed weak in tone. Early Morning Gossip.

New York, November 17 .- (Over the Paine Murphy Company's Private Wire.)-Ad. ances and declines in the markets usually led by the active speculative stocks. This being the ease, people who mean to remain on the long side and not get carried away by a decline, are studying what they will buy when the reaction is over. If the past is any guide, Burlington and Quincy, St. Paul, Rhede Island, Sugar and Chicago Gas will decline as much from the top as anything, but will recover from the bottom first and most at the outset. There is usually time in an upturn to buy St. Paul or Burlington and Quincy and get 3 points start. This rule may be modified this time by the greater willingness of friends of low-priced stocks to move their specialties, and by the fact that most of the stocks selling in the twenties now have quite a respectable bull account ready to become active on fair opportunity.

The decline in St. Paul amounts to about 3 points. It is expected to fall 5 points at least from the highest. Traders sold yesterday on the belief that earnings for the second week would show a heavy decrease. Everybody has become bearish on Sugar. It was almost impossible yesterday to find anybody who did not believe the Havemeyers were out of their speculative lines and anybody who did not believe the Havemey-ers were out of their speculative lines and that the stock was beginning a decline which would run 10 or 15 points at least. Brokers in the stock said the buying was fully as good as the selling.

Paine-Murphy Co.'s Stock Letter. Atlanta, November 17.—There was considerable irregularity in the stock market today and the expected raid of the bears did not appear in any force until near the close, when Sugar, which had previously advanced 14 per cent from the opening, broke sharply, faaling about 2 per cent under last night's figures. The whole list was weaker, and with this aggressive move-ment, although some of the issues showed a fair degree of resistance, the tendency was downward. ong the latter class of stocks were

American Spirits, Chicago Gas, Pacific Mail, Northern Pacific, Reading and some of the outhwestern shares. Reading was sustained by the favorable entiment created by the formal organiza-ion of the new company. Pacific Mail was upported by talk of a dividend and American Spirits business indicated a renewal

Manhattan lost about 2 per cent and Metrepolitan Traction advanced sharply on the expectation of the declaration of a scrip dividend. American Tobacto was heavy. The railway list, after some sharp midday rallies, ran off in the last hour and generally scored et losses for the day.

Bull News Did Not Count and Prices Closed Lower.

Chicago, November 17.—Bull news did not count in wheat today, nor was bull effort productive of any result. Wheat was for sale at all times and at all prices, and the demand was without energy. The puts were the principal support, and had it not been far the buying against those privileges there is scarcely any doubt but that a greater decline than that which took place would have been recorded. December yhbat opened from 77% to 77%c. sold between 78 and 76%c, closing at 76%g 76%c—1%c01½c under yesterday. Cash wheat was weak and 1@1½c lower.

The business in corn was conspicuously dull. The feeling was easier in sympathy with wheat's decline. The narrow range within which prices moved was governed to a great extent by the proximity of puts and calls to each other, although the latter privileges had but little to do with the question. May corn opened at 28¼c, declined to 27%c, closing at 27%c—3@3/c under yesterday. Cash corn was weak and Ic lower on new and ½c lower on old. Oats—With very little doing and very little interest in the market exhibited, prices of oats declined in response to like action in wheat and corn. May oats closed ¼@3/c under yesterday. Cash oats were ½@3/c under yesterday. Cash oats were ½@4/c lower.

The provisions market showed almost a unanimous lack of confidence on the part of holders. Hogs were in heavy supply here and at all western poin's. The promise of a continued heavy movement from the country and the rather slow cash demand were exceedingly unfavorable to higher prices. At the close January ribs 5@7½c lower.

Paine-Murphy Co.'s Grain Letter.

Atlanta, November 17.—Liquidation of December wheat has again been the bear influence in our market today. Some of the big holders apparently let to considerable wheat, and there was quite free selling by smaller longs through commission houses. Reports from the northwest that receipts are increasing caused a weak feeling in Liverpool and Parls, and an increase in the world's visible of 7,000,000 bushels were responsible for a great deal of this selling and outweighed the fairly good cash business—about 180,000 bushels. There seemed to be some buying in December by Paine-Murphy Co.'s Grain Letter.

elevator people and selling of May at to difference. Otherwise there was little support to December except from shorts. This liquidation is causing weak feeling among the local traders, as it generally does, and lower prices from its effects is being freely taiked of and has a tendency to keep buyers for investment out of the market until it is over. The Liverpool market is also showing weakness, and bulls at the moment find their posting and a great many of them are, therefore, selling out. The large increase in the world's visible comes largely from Europe, where stocks increased 5,200,000 hushels. Clearances were 250,000 bushels. The close was barely steady, with very little encouragement for holders.

There has been quite influential selling of corn by professional traders on the poor shipping demand and prospects of larger receipts. The east seems to be filled up, and as new corn will come on the market soon, and is of an excellent quality, holders find little encouragement.

The weakness in provisioms was caused principally by liquidation caused by the heavy receipts of hogs and lower grain markets. Commission houses were free sellers, with packers buying moderately.

One of the handsomest girls in Atlanta was there, trying on a lot of the pretty things, not only a handsome girl as to dimples and bright eyes and smooth, rosy complexión, but one also with a smart figure and a positive genius for good dressing. She tried on a muff, hat and cape that looked as if designed especially for her.

You remember the painting of Marie

Antoinette with her children? Well, the hat was just like the one worn by the unfortunate Austrian beauty. It had a rather narrow brim of black velvet, with a full tam-o-shanter velvet crown twisted around with light folds of lace and chiffon, while the left side near the front was adorned with a tall cluster of white ostrich tips.

And the cape to match was simply made of black ostrich feathers. The body of it Still there was a beauty with a folded brim of turquoise velvet and bless you, one article sufficient to make the husband of the woman who bought it supplicate her never to dream again, or if she did, to do so on a less expensive scale, on a Welsh rarebit and a bottle of a crown of gold braided with pearls and three small tips caught by jeweled clasps at the side. The Dutch bonnet is a kind of reincarnation of an old idea, as it comes to us be-feathered and beautified, and some Hats from Rebeaux and Virot bodices and wraps and fine furs from Felix and lovely ones were to be seen of royal pur-ple, brown, black and gray velvet, the A great picture hat, if you please, was the first one to catch the eye on the left shades mixed suitable to ladies of middle the first one to catch the eye of the hand side as you entered. It was all in black, the hat itself being a big one, with a high crown in lustrous black velvet. The trimming was simple, but superb. A bandsome buckle drawn through folded velandes.

Flame red was to be seen on several smart walking and visiting hats. A big bow of fiame velvet ornamented the side of a simple, but effective hat with a low crown and a brim made of plaited plaid silk and brown chenille, while the left side was ornamented with brown quills. A smart hat, decidedly dressy, had a brim of fluted mottled velvet in one of the many variations of royal purple. The back had a lot of shaded green roses and at the side waved a beautiful aigrette of pale green paradise plumes. In this display, by the way, it was noticeable that while the startling colors in purple, pink and red that characterize this season's millinery, were evident, the trimming the back was not so pronounced nor there such a tendency to make very flaring effects on either side, either of the back or front, as one has seen during the past seasons. Indeed, however, the most elegart millinery always strikes the happy medium Yesterday Mrs. W. D. Grant and Mrs. Sarah Grant Jackson gave the first of their series of Tuesday afternoon teas, and entertained delightfully and informally their many friends who called. among the local wheelmen in regard to the matter. Some are heartly in favor of it and some are bitterly opposed to any such measure. Strange to say, nearly all of the dealers are in favor of the ordinance. Mr. Copeland, of Copeland & Bishop, said: "I think such an ordinance would be a good thing, and every wheelman in Atlata would be heartly in favor of it if the money so gained would be spent in improving the streets or roads. Then, again, it gives the wheels protection, and other vehicles would be compelled to respect their rights, but while I think it is a good thing, it cannot be, for we already pay taxes on it and some are bitterly opposed to any

Mr. Gus Castle spoke for Mr. Byrd, who is out of the city.
"I believe the majority of riders are in favor of such an ordinance. They believe that it would give them the recognition that they should have. - Each wheel would have a registered number and tag, and when lost or stolen could be easily identified. The plan of taxing wheels exists in several cities. Vicksburg, Miss., and Cinseveral cities. Vicksburg, miss., and cincinnati both have a bicycle tax."

On the other hand, Mr. H. L. Piggott, of the Piggott Cycle Company, is opposed to such a tax, and does not believe the riders of the city want it. "There are too many taxes to pay now," said Mr. Piggott, "and the people do not want such a tax. There are at the most not over 3,000 wheels in the city, and what good would $3,000 a year do on our streets?

good would $3,000 a year do on our streets? It would not make a showing."

While it is believed by the wheelmen seen yesterday that the majority of riders would favor such a tax, it is almost the universal opinion that such a tax cannot legally be levied. A prominent lawyer, who is also an enthusiastic wheelman, said yesterday:

"Such a tax cannot be levied. We pay taxes already on our wheels and any fur-ther tax would be a direct tax. Bicycles are vehicles, and you might as well try to put a tax on a certain kind of buggy or wagon. I do not know of any city where such a tax exists, and if there is one the people evidently do not object, or they could get out of paying it." It seems that in Mobile there is a registration fee of 25 cents on each wheel, but they cannot compel the wheelmen to

Just what will become of the matter is hard to tell, for the councilmen have not thought it over yet and do not know what the law is on the subject of making such

TWO MEETINGS HERE.

Executive Officers and the Passenger Men Transact Business.

Two meetings of railroad men were held here yesterday. The executive board of the Southern States Passenger Association met at the Aragon and the rate committee of the passenger association met at the as-sociation's office in the Equitable. Among the members of the executive board who were here were: President Comer and Vice President Egan, of the Cen tral; President Smith, of the Atlanta and West Point; Second Vice President Finley, of the Southern; Vice President Shaw, of the Georgia Southern and Florida; S. F. Parrott, of the Columbus Southern, and Commissioner W. H. Fitzgerald, of the Associated Railways of Virginia sociated Railways of Virginia.

It was stated that the meeting transacted nothing but routine business.

The passenger men who attended the rate committee meeting were General Passenger Agent W. H. Turk, Assistants S. H. Hardwick and Benscoter, of the Southern; General Passenger Agents Haile, of the Central; Rahner, of the Florida East Coast; Danly, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Atmore, of the Louisville and Nashville, Jackson, of the Georgia; Gee, of the Atlanta and West Point; Ackerly of the Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West; Campbell, of the Atlantic Coast Line; MacDonald, of the Georgia Southern and Florida, and Assistant General Passenger Agent McFadden, of the Savannah, Florida and Western.

This committee granted a number of special rates.

FIRE FOR HIS LOVE S. S. Webster Is Charged with a

TO CREMATE HIS SWEETHEART

Strange Crime.

Said To Have Set Fire to Her House Dashed Oil on the Dry Woodwork.

S. J. Webster, a middle-aged white man who is the proprietor of a grocery store at the corner of Rhodes and Elliott streets, is locked in the station house charged with arson. He is accused of set-ting fire to a house to burn his own sweet-

Webster is an ex-soldier at the barracks and was formerly from Winston, N. C., in Rogkingham county. The house which Webster is accused of firing is the home of Mrs. Georgia Looney, 53 Rhodes

It seems that for several months previous to the attempted destruction by fire Web-ster has been infatuated with a pretty young girl by the name of Mamie Jackson, who lived at 8 Madison street. The girl looked with favor on her suitor for a while, but several weeks ago, it is said, she threw him ruthlessly overboard and moved to the home of Mrs. Looney, where Webster was not allowed to visit. Then it was, it is said, that Webster's anger fanned into desperation by his sweetheart's cruel treatment, determined

Set the House Afire. If the witnesses for the prosecution tell the truth Webster procured a bottle of kerosene oil and in the dead of night set out for the house. About midnight the inmates were horrified by a fire in the rear of the house and the maiden was terror-stricken. Had it midnight the inmates were horrinot been for the fire department the house would have undoubtedly been burned and probably the girl cremated.

But his unique method for revenge was nipped in the bud. It seems that he, or some one else, tried it again, for the next night at almost the same time the house was fired again and was only saved by the efficient work of the fire department. Mrs. Looney suspected that some one was doing the firebug act around her premises and reported the case to the city detec-tives. Landford and Cason were detailed on the case and after a few days' work deemed the evidence strong enough to lock Webster up on suspicion.

Instead of being prosecuted on the arson Instead of being prosection on the arson case, however, he was tried before the recorder and sent to the stockade for ten days for engaging in a difficulty with a negro woman. In the meantime officers have been working on the case/and they now claim the evidence is sufficiently strong to convict him.

A young girl by the name of Idel Redmond claims she followed Webster the night of the fire and saw him start the blaze. Other witnesses have been secured who claim they saw Webster purchase the bottle and who detected the smell of oil on his clothes. Webster was arrested and locked in the station house on the same charge. A warrant was sworn out for him yesterday afternoon and he will be tried this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Says He Is Innocent. When seen last night Webster stoutly asserted his innocence. He says he was not near the house the night of the fire, and that he can easily establish an allbi. "That Redmond woman is prosecuting me," said Webster, "Just simply for spite. She and I had a fuss several weeks ago and now she claims she saw me set that house on fire, and she lies. Amendment Was Filed Yesterday to the Petition of the Creditors of the Foote & Zuber Company.

An amendment to the petition of A. E. Weihl & Co., which was filed Saturday against the Foote & Zuber Lumber company, was yesterday filed in the superior court by Attorneys Glenn, Slaton and Phillips.

Phillips.

The petition alleges that within the past few weeks, and since the insolvency of the company, as believed by the complainants, the officers and directors of the company. the officers and directors of the company, John W. Zuber and J. C. Foote, received in payment of debts due the company, or by the use of the assets purchased for the company the stock of the company and canceled it. The amount of stock which is said to have been canceled is about $12,000. It is claimed that the officers of the company had no right to use any of the assets in canceling the stock while the company was in debt, and they are held personally responsible for the alleged diversion of the assets.

It is further charged by the complainants that about a year ago the Georgia South-hat about a year ago the Georgia Souththat about a year ago the Georgia South-ern Lumber Company was organized and chartered with a capital stock of $25,000. It is said that Foote and Zuber subscribed for a large amount of this stock and that the only other stockholder was I. X. Cheaves. It is alleged that Foote and Zu-bet, acting as the officers of the Foote & Zuber Lumber Company, transferred to ber, acting as the officers of the Foote & Zuber Lumber Company, transferred to the Georgia Southern Lumber Company the bulk of the assets of the Foote & Luber Lumber Company, consisting of the plant, saw mills, real estate, mules, carts and all other assets of this nature. It is said that they received for the assets thus said that they received for the assets thus transferred stock in the Georgia Southern Lumber Company, and that the stock was taken in the name of Foote and Zuber as individuals, and that the Foote & Zuber as the control of the cont Lumber Company did not receive anything for its assets, which paid for the stock.

The petitioners asked that J. C. Foote, John W. Zuber and I. X. Cheaves be made John W. Zuber and I. X. Charles defendant to the bill; that an injunction be issued against each one of them, restraining them from disposing of, mortgaging or otherwise interfering with the present status of the property of the Georgia Southern Lumber Company until the further order of the court; that in the meantime a temporary injunction be issued, to remain in force until the case is heard; that upon hearing of the petition a receiver be ap-pointed to take charge of the assets of the Georgia Southern Lumber Company; that upon the hearing all the assets of the Georgia Southern Lumber Company transferred by the Foote & Zuber Lum-ber Company be decreed to be the property of the latter company, and that both Mr. Foote and Mr. Zuber be individually held responsible for a diversion of the assets of the company, of which they were

The amendment was presented Judge Lumpkin, who set the case for a hearing on November 21st before him in chambers, at which time the defendants are ordered to show cause why the petition should not be granted. The following order was signed by Judge Lumpkin in the case:
"In the meantime each and all of the sald named parties are enjoined from transfering, disposing of, mortgaging, or in any wise changing the present status of the assets of the Georgia Southern Lumber Company. If they are engaged in active business, that company may continue the daily progress of business in the regular and ordinary course, provided they will keep accurate accounts of the business and hold the proceeds ready to be delivered, if a receiver be appointed. They are restrained from selling in bulk, or disposing of the plant or other property ex-cept as stated, or creating any liens or mortgages on any of the property."

CLOTHES IN A THICKET. Mysterious Suit and Hat Found in West End.

of foul play or suicide, was made by the police Monday. A suit of clothes and derby hat were found hid in a thicket near Holderness street in West End by Charles Reams, who was out strolling with his children at the time. The strange clothes were almost hid from sight by the dense un-derbrush. The place is deserted, and very few people ever pass that way.

The suit was not one that would have been thrown away from long use. It was comparatively new, and was of black chev-lot. The hat was also new, and the garments gave evidence of having been worn once by some well-to-do person. Judging from their condition they had not been left in the woods long. On examining the coat and vest for some pa-pers to identify the owner, Mr. Reams found a nickel in the vest pocket. There was absolutely nothing that would lead to the identity of the owner.

Mr. Reams did not disturb the clothes and left them in the thicket. The find was and left them in the thicket. The find was reported to Officer Ivy last night and he made an investigation, but could find no clews. The presence of the garments in that lonely spot is altogether mysterious.

The Judicial Convention. Editor Constitution-The citizens of the various counties of the state have met and chosen delegates to the convention to be held on the 18th instant for the purpose of chosen delegates to the convention to be held on the 18th instant for the purpose of electing additional members of the supreme count of Georgia, in accordance with the amendment of the constitution recently ratified by the voters of the state; and we are most thoroughly satisfied that it is the wish, indeed the supreme desire, of the citizens of the commonwealth of Georgia that their judiciary be as far removed as possible from the pernicious and contaminating influences of political partizanship. May we not then, with some degree of hope and assurance, invoke from each and every delegate to the convention so soon to meet a calm and intelligent reflection of the very grave responsibilities and important trust imposed upon him, and decide from his own conscience whether or not he can afford to cajole with, aid and abet such policies and practices as within the past years have been known to besmirch most direfully the should-be spotless judicial etmine of the state? Can we not hope that our convention will use its best endeavors to emancipate the administration of the laws from such canker and carbunkles, instead of the more severely infesting it with the like? They should, by your and influence, endeavor to select such candidates as in their intelligent judgment be most free from unfavorable criticisms as to their honor and integrity. Yes, the confidence in the delegates to that convention assures us that they will select such distinguished men of the highest legal attainments and in every way best qualified for the high and exalted position of supreme magistrates of the state of Georgia.

Many Shoppers Witness Byck Brothers' Brilliant Opening Yesterday.

CLERKS IN EVENING DRESS

Mammoth Double Store Was Beautifully Decorated with Evergreens, Ferns and Palms.

The opening of Byck Brothers' mammoth shoe store was a brilliant success yester-

From 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 clock last night the double salesroom was crowded with delighted visitors who had been invited to see the superb stock of footwear that is now being introduced by Byck Brothers.

The store now occupied by the firm has been newly remodeled, and the work has just been completed. The dividing wall between the two stores has been torn away and both stores made into one spacious room. The walls have been handsomely decorated with the artist's brush, elegant shelving and furnishing materials have been substituted for the old, and the room is as elegant and luxurious in its various departments as a parlor.

On one side of the store, hondsomely and tastily arranged, are the gentlemen's shoes, This line is probably one of the largest and most varied carried in the south. On the opposite side are kept shoes for ladies. Just in front of the long line of shelving have been placed cushioned chairs for customers, and the store has a capacity for seating about fifty customers at one time. The entire store was brilliantly decorated and lighted yesterday afternoon at the opening. The double show windows were decorated with American beauty roses and cut flowers, while interwoven among the evergreens and palms were several sample displays of shoes. The interior was made brilliant with electric lights, while the floral decorations were elegant and Ten salesmen, dressed in evening dress, received the visitors yesterday, and introduced the guests to the extensive and

Their success has come in rapid paces and each month's business has been better than the month just passed. The Whitehall street store in Atlanta is under the management of Messrs. W. S. and L.

The police department is the largest in point of numbers, coasisting of 170 men beside the special detail of officers who have been assigned to keep back the crowds. The firemen have an even 100 men and their splendid machines and fine horses will show off the department to advantage. even if their number is smaller than the number in the police department.

Chief Veal, of the sanitary department, has been drilling the men of his department industriously for several weeks. The sanitary officers will all be splendidly mounted and well drilled and will undoubtedly receive as much attention as the larger departments of the city.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE GREAT

The First Annual Review of Atlanta's

is no little rivalry existing between the men of the different branches.

A number of acceptances have been resent to the mayors of other cities asking them to witness the parade from the reviewing stand. There will be about sixty men on the reviewing stand, including the mayor and general council, the board of sioners and the heads of departments and mayors of other cities.

Much interest is being manifested in the review by the merchants and citizens generally and there will certainly be a tremendous crowd out to watch the parade.

Giving Presents

Always Popular. Weddings, birthdays, anniversaries and other occasions that demand friendly and substantial recognition are constantly occurring. What to give is not so difficult to determine if you visit this store. Our displays of China, Cut Glass, Bric-a-brac, Lamps and Statuary are so comprehensive and diversified, so ar istic and elegant, that you'll find choosing reduced to an experience of pleasure instead of one of bother and worry. The practical side of the store glitters with the same splendor and economy. No purchase of Housekeeping needs should be completed until our great stock is seen. Extraordinary variety, easy prices.

$2,250 buys new 8-room house, built this year, all modern conveniences, hardelinish, gas, hot and cold water, bathroan, stationary washstand, cabinet manusal clubhouse grates, pantry, closets, etc. This house is constructed of the very best material, and good workmanship; was the present owner; house and lot cost over $2,500 cash, and then the lot was bound remarkably cheap. This place is situated on the corner of Loyd street, in a sected of the city that has been improved more this year than any other. Terms, on-half cash, balance reasonable. Owner consulting the place will net a good per estate on the investment, as the owner tells us he has refused repeated offers to rent the place at $25 per month. This offer only for a few days.
